RIGHT-CENTRE MEETS SHARP POLLS DEFEAT

Popular Front, Including Socialists of Various Groups and Communists, Elects 375 Members Out of 618 in New Chamber; Communists Total Eighty-one; Fascists Defeated

Canadian Press from Havas

Paris, May 4.—A Left Front strength of 375 seats, including eighty-one Communists, in the next Chamber of Deputies was the French voters' answer today to Fascist elements in the republic, led by Col. Francois Casimir de la Rocque, leader of the Croix de Feu.

The Left Front—coalition of Leftist parties in the Chamber—had a clear majority of 137 over the right and centre groups, with a few seats still to report.

Latest returns today from yesterday's run-off election indicated the United Socialist Party, with at least 145 of the 618 seats in the Chamber, will be the strongest single party, displacing the more moderate Radical Socialists, who predominated in the last Chamber, but who had captured only 115 seats on the showing of available figures.

The right and centre groups had a combined strength of 238 seats.

HOW VOTES DIVIDED

The People's Front parties, representing the entire left wing of French politics, polled more than 600,000 of the total vote of 1,500,000 counted early today. The rightist parties had about 450,000, the centre about 360,000, while 90,000 votes were credited to parties not affiliated with either of the major groups.

LIKE A ROSE

The defeat of the Fascist groups was regarded as little short of a rout in view of their showing compared with their pre-election claims.

Col. de la Rocque admonished his followers to "vote for the most Nationalist candidates and against the People's Front." He claimed the Croix de Feu represented a block of 90,000 votes. The total right and centre vote was about half of that figure.

TWO MINISTERS DEFEATED

Two cabinet ministers, Marcel Deat, Air Minister, and Jacques Stern, Minister of the Interior, were defeated.

J. J. Gibbons Tells Commons Committee That as Advertising Man He Was Satisfied With Conservative Radio Broadcasts

Ottawa, May 4.—J. J. Gibbons, head of the advertising company bearing his name, today told the House of Commons radio committee that the script for the "Mr. Sage" political broadcasts during the federal general election campaign last fall had not been kept on file after the first broadcast of the series.

He also told Paul Martin, Liberal, East Essex, Ont., he had not seen the continuities since last fall, and believed they had been destroyed.

R. L. Wright, who wrote the continuities, was head of his research department, Mr. Gibbons said. He had discussed the first script with Hon. J. Earl Lawson, then Dominion Conservative organizer, to whom he sold the series, and Mr. Lawson had paid for it.

Then there is no doubt the broadcasts were for the Conservative Party, Mr. Martin observed. "No, sir," Mr. Gibbons replied.

Ottawa, May 4.—Marine insurance rates on the Hudson Bay route have been reduced for the coming year and the season extended eight days, Railway Minister Howe announced in the House of Commons today.

SUSPECT IN SLAYING HELD

Associated Press

Salt Lake City, May 4.—Police announced today the arrest of a long-sought suspect in the brutal attack-slaying of Ruth Shaw, twenty, whose body was found March 2 in a snow-bank in historic Emigration Canyon.

The man was captured in a tourist camp at Green River, Wyoming, and was started at once for Salt Lake City.

Authorities said he gave the name of Ben H. Jack Jr., twenty-one. They said they have been trailing him since the body of the pretty unemployed bookkeeper was found.

Auto That Crashed Into Subway

A threatened collision with another car caused Howard Ashe abruptly to swerve his car at 135th street and Broadway in New York City. The machine crashed through the stone guard rail along the subway and plunged to the tracks below. Ashe and his companion were injured by falling masonry and a subway train crashed into the wreck. A big crane was lifting the wrecked auto out of the subway when the above picture was taken.

Victoria Member Dies At Ottawa

D. B. Plunkett Succumbs to Pneumonia in Hospital at Capital; Had Held Seat For Conservatives Since 1928; Funeral at Orillia Tomorrow

THE LATE D. B. PLUNKETT

Victoria lost its representative in the House of Commons through the death early yesterday of D'Arcy Britton Plunkett, who has held the constituency for the last eight years.

Mr. Plunkett's death followed a short illness. Last week he entered hospital in Ottawa, where he was attending the annual session of Parliament. His death was due to pneumonia with complications.

The Victoria member was sixty-four years old.

His passing was mourned by political workers of all stripes. Only seven months ago he conducted an energetic campaign to retain the Victoria seat for the Conservatives.

Mr. Plunkett was born in Orillia, in 1872, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Plunkett. He never married.

Coming to the Coast Mr. Plunkett established a tin-smith's business in Victoria.

Much Work Yet For Parliament

List of Legislation Announced By Premier King May End Before Middle of June

Premier Pattullo is expected back here this week from Ottawa where he has been conducting financial negotiations with the federal government for the last month. The Premier was still in Ottawa today, according to provincial advisers, but probably will leave the capital in a day or two.

NORMAN LORD PLEADS GUILTY

Admits Theft of $4,743 As Road and Poll Tax Collector For City

Norman Hartnell Lord, former road and poll tax collector for the city, who was dismissed in January after the discovery of shortages in his collections, pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of stealing $4,743 from the Corporation of the City of Victoria, between July, 1933, and January, 1934.

He was remanded until tomorrow morning for sentence. Lord gave himself up to city police authorities yesterday morning after they had communicated with him in Vancouver. He appeared with Stuart Henderson, as counsel, this morning and pleaded guilty himself after his counsel had elected summary trial.

D. A. MacDonald, city comptroller, was called by Prosecutor C. L. Harrison, to give details of the charge.

WILD RIOTS IN MADRID TODAY

Thirty-two Persons Wounded As Dozen Churches and Schools Burned

Madrid, May 4.—Rioters, inflamed by rumors that priests and nuns were distributing poisoned candy to children, set fire to more than twelve Roman Catholic churches, schools and monasteries today. At least thirty-two persons were wounded.

The fiercest rioting since October, 1934, spread through the northern part of the capital.

Two of those wounded were nuns. Five churches, two convent schools and two homes of priests were virtually destroyed by rioters who cut fire hose and threatened firemen attempting to save the buildings.

Rioters exchanged gunfire with squads of civil guards who attempted to clear the streets.

They swirled through the Cuatro Caminos portion of the city shouting: "Burn the churches."

Incendiaries destroyed a church in the village of Castor after wrecking its statues and destroying a painting. The Castor village priest was driven from town and threatened with death if he returned.

A priest in the village of Algar received like treatment and his home and church were destroyed.

In a third anti-clerical outbreak in Cadix, a church under construction was burned to the ground.

Police patrols, after putting down the rioting, circulated throughout the Cuatro Caminos area at dusk.

Natives Assigned to Guard French Legation in Addis Ababa Turn Their Guns Against Building; After Two Days of Pillaging by Mobs, Ethiopian Capital Lies in Ruins as Italian Army Moves in to Occupy It; Woman From United States Killed

Foreigners Are Reported Wounded

Associated Press

Paris, May 4.—According to a wireless message today from Paul Bodard, French Minister to Ethiopia, several foreigners in the British legation in Addis Ababa had been wounded by bandits' shots.

At that time, the minister said there still was no word of the Italian advance and Fascist troops, who are expected to relieve the mob-crashed city, were not yet in sight.

Bodard reported the French legation had been under siege all night long.

Bodard also wirelessed his government an Italian airplane flew into Addis Ababa at noon.

(By the Associated Press and other American correspondents, collaborating in use of limited transmission facilities).

Addis Ababa, May 4.—Rampaging rioters and looters left a ruined Ethiopian capital open to occupation by the Italian army today after two days of pillaging, firing and killing during which a United States woman fell among the uncounted victims.

The business centre of the town was wrecked, streets were strewn with corpses, government buildings were stormed and some foreign mission and legation quarters were attacked in the native campaign to raze the capital.

WHEREABOUTS NOT REPORTED

Dispatches tell of Emperor Haile Selassie, the Empress, little Prince Makonnen and two princesses leaving Djibouti aboard the British cruiser Enterprise for Palestine, but do not mention Crown Prince Asfa Wossen (above) by name. For a couple of weeks past reports have said it was possible he would consider appointment as puppet Emperor of Ethiopia by Mussolini.

INTERNATIONAL STRAIN INCREASES

Associated Press

Paris, May 4.—French official circles saw the definite ending of the Italo-Ethiopian war in Emperor Haile Selassie's flight. They regarded his abandonment of the capital as a blow to League of Nations' efforts to maintain collective security and as adding new difficulties to the tense international situation.

SELASSIE GOES TO PALESTINE

British Cruiser Conveying Emperor After His Flight From Ethiopia

Associated Press

London, May 4.—An authoritative source disclosed today that Haile Selassie, fugitive Emperor of Ethiopia, had boarded the British cruiser Enterprise at Djibouti.

Shortly before this disclosure was made, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had told the House of Commons the Enterprise had been placed at the disposal of the Negus.

Mr. Eden disclosed Haile Selassie would go to Haifa, Palestine.

However, the Emperor and his entourage were stated actually to have been aboard the cruiser when Mr. Eden spoke. It was said the Foreign Secretary had held up the announcement of the actual embarkation until the Emperor's safety on the cruiser was assured.

TRAVELED BY TRAIN

The Emperor had fled to the French Somaliland seaport from Addis Ababa by railroad.

Aboard the British warship, he will be conveyed to safety at Haifa, Palestine, a British-mandated country.

The Enterprise, a cruiser of 7,500 tons, carries an airplane and its guns include seven of six-inch calibre. It is capable of thirty-three knots an hour.

Mr. Eden said the Negus had made

Servants Help Drive Off Bandits

Associated Press

London, May 4.—The British government today asked Sir Sidney Barton, its minister to Ethiopia, to do everything possible to help the United States legation in Addis Ababa.

Washington, May 4.—After beating off one violent assault by Ethiopian bandits, the United States Minister to Ethiopia today told Washington the "situation is getting worse," and appealed for British assistance to protect the legation.

Evidencing the danger threatening the tiny group of United States citizens still holding the legation against marauders was the serious wounding of two native women in the servants' quarters.

BANDITS BEATEN OFF

Cornelius Van H. Engert, the minister, reported how a handful of Americans and native servants had driven off a bandit attack at 9 o'clock in the morning (11 o'clock last night, P.S.T.), when his wife, had narrowly escaped bullets from the rioters.

But six hours later, Engert appealed for British aid through the State Department, hoping London could reach Sir Sidney Barton, the minister at Ethiopia, by wireless, because his own messengers could not get through the short-riddled capital.

DIRECT SHOTS

Two hours later, at 5 p.m. Ethiopian time, Engert, without saying whether a missed attack on the legation appeared imminent, wirelessed this terse message:

"Situation getting worse. Several direct shots fired at buildings and radio station since this morning, and two native women in our servants' quarters."

Italian Victory Blow For League

Events in Ethiopia Bring Nations to Problem of Reform, Say Observers

Associated Press

Geneva, May 4.—The Italian triumph in Ethiopia, signalized by the flight of Emperor Haile Selassie, was interpreted in some Geneva sources today as a major blow to the League of Nations as presently constituted.

The League became convinced, these sources said, that economic and financial sanctions were futile in attempting to halt a campaign of aggression, and that swift, co-ordinated military action was necessary in such cases.

Whether the League would want to go that far, reliable Geneva sources said, was a question the League states must be ready to answer soon. A frank reform of the League was foreseen in these quarters.

The League Council will meet May 11.

PUPPET EMPEROR

Geneva, May 4.—Members of the League of Nations generally anticipated today that Premier Mussolini would put a puppet emperor on the throne of Ethiopia and quickly make a peace treaty on his own terms.

An Italian spokesman emphasized that Italy always recognized the existence of Ethiopia. From this it was

CAHAN'S ATTITUDE

Before the forenoon sitting ended C. H. Cahan, Conservative, St. Lawrence-St. George, Montreal, former Secretary of State, described the investigation into Conservative political broadcasts, such as had been proceeding before the committee, as "utter nonsense," and declared that "if driven to it," he would move to investigate those carried on by other parties and "take up the time of the committee another three or four weeks."

Paul Martin, Liberal, East Essex, Ont., and Colin Campbell, Liberal, Frontenac-Addington, Ont., said they had about completed their inquiries on the "Mr. Sage" broadcasts, and resented any suggestion the inquiry to date had not elicited information that would be useful in formulating policy for future radio political campaigns.

WANTS EXPERTS

Denton Massey, Conservative, Greenwood-Toronto, suggested men familiar with broadcasting be called, not as witnesses to be cross-examined, but as experts to give the benefit of their experiences, so new policies could be recommended to Parliament.

TO HEAR NEW YORKER

It was agreed to ask Parliament to reduce the committee quorum to nine. The hearing was scheduled to continue this afternoon. Thursday the committee will hear from Herbert Parkinson, head of the Trans-Radio News Service of New York, and other interested organizations.

"SMART WORK"

During this forenoon's sitting, Mr. Martin asked Mr. Gibbons: "You knew that all political advertising should be sponsored?" "Yes," the witness answered.

"Then why was not that advertising sponsored by the Conservative Party?" Mr. Martin asked, pointing to a newspaper advertisement of the "Sage" programmes which made no mention of political sponsorship.

"Because we thought it was a smart piece of advertising," the witness answered.

Mr. Martin suggested it was because the desire was to lead the public to believe the broadcasts were by an independent commentator.

RULING BY COMMISSION

Later advertisements were sponsored by I. H. Wright on behalf of a group of Conservatives.

That was done, said Mr. Gibbons, because the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission had ruled the programmes must be sponsored or they would be taken off the air.

"You have admitted, then, that this was a little trick to keep the public from knowing who was sponsoring the broadcasts?" Mr. Martin pressed.

"No, we wanted to get as many people to listen to them as possible."

WOULD SHY OFF

"You did not think as many would listen if they knew it was a Conservative broadcast," Chairman Al. Beaubien suggested.

"No, sir," the witness replied. "Do you agree with Mr. Charlesworth (chairman of the Radio Commission) that they were 'tripe'?" asked Mr. Martin.

"No, sir." "I am proud of your product?" "I am perfectly satisfied," Mr. Gibbons said.

"Do you mean to say, then, you believe in deceiving the people on a nation-wide scale?" asked Mr. Martin.

SUGAR COATING

"No, I don't think anybody was deceived. It was just a sugar coating to get people to listen to the first broadcast, feeling sure if they did they would listen to all the rest. I am an advertising man, you know."

THREATS RECEIVED

He recalled Wright had received threats against continuing the series and had discussed them with him.

"What was your reaction?" asked W. M. Ryan, Liberal, Saint John-Albert, N.B.

"I took it as a tribute to the programmes," Mr. Gibbons said. "I thought the broadcasts were for the benefit of Canada."

"You mean for the benefit of the Conservative Party," the chairman suggested.

"That would be the same thing," Mr. Gibbons declared. Cameron R. McIntosh, Liberal, North Battleford, Sask., asked the witness which form of advertising he thought most efficient, radio or space in country weekly papers.

Mr. Gibbons replied he thought radio would be the better medium if he could afford them.

QUESTION OF BENEFIT

Defence Minister Mackenzie suggested that when Mr. Gibbons said he thought the broadcasts were for the benefit of Canada "you meant for the benefit of J. J. Gibbons."

WRIGHT TESTIFIES

Mr. Wright was called next and sworn. "What part did you have in the 'Sage' broadcasts?" asked Mr. Martin.

"I wrote the main part of them all," replied the witness. "You knew these broadcasts were for the Conservative Party?"

"I judged so." "But you sponsored them?" "I can't answer that question, Mr. Gibbons asked for the use of my name and as his employee I consented."

He had received many telephone calls—one of them threatening his life, said the witness.

Mr. Charlesworth, Radio Commission chairman, was recalled and said the first time he knew the "Sage" broadcast was to be a political dramatization was when he heard the initial sketch.

He believed Mr. Wright sponsored the second "Sage" broadcast, after he had directed the programme must have a sponsor. Later he had ruled the programme be sponsored by the Conservative Party, but finally consented to sponsorship by Mr. Wright "and a group of Conservatives."

Colin Campbell, Liberal, Frontenac-Addington, Ont., asked why the rule that all political broadcasts be paid for in advance was not observed in the case of the Conservative Party.

These were various types of accounts and the rule did not apply when it was obvious the applicant was "good for it," said the witness.

Mr. Bennett was extended credit and not asked for a contract, "no doubt we would ask Mr. King (Prime Minister King)."

At the present time, Mr. Charlesworth said, "As a matter of fact we did act for Mr. King in Quebec and the 'Sage' programme was taken off some stations for Mr. King. We acted for Mr. Pattullo (Premier Pattullo) in British Columbia in the same way."

later for Colonies, were defeated in the run-off.

A number of prominent rightist deputies and former ministers went down in the leftist victory.

Jean Fauriol, rightist and former war minister, was defeated by Lucien Bousquet, France's most outstanding aviator, who ran as a People's Front candidate.

Henry Franklin-Bouillon, opponent of the People's Front (or Popular Front), lost to a Communist in Poitiers.

HERMIOT RE-ELECTED
In Lyons, former Premier Edouard Herriot, Radical Socialist, who was forced into a run-off this year for the first time since he became a member of Parliament in 1919, won with the aid of the other left front parties.

REYNAUD RE-ELECTED
Other outstanding political figures returned to the Chamber include Paul Reynaud, former Finance Minister, and advocate of devaluation; Raoul Aubaud, general secretary of the Radical Socialist Party; Raymond Patenotre, Independent, who has newspaper interests in the United States; Pierre Taittinger, Rightist leader; Philippe Herriot, one of the Rightist leaders, prominent in the attack on the Left government after the Stavisky scandal; Gaston Bergery, called the stormy petrel of the Left, and Jacques Doriot, veteran Communist leader.

PARIS GOES LEFT
Paris and the surrounding Seine districts went heavily to the Communists, while the party made sizeable gains in several provinces.

The small parties of both the Left and Right were practically eliminated from the contest in the run-off, as parties on both sides threw their strength behind the leading candidate of their group.

It was estimated the total vote would surpass the 10,000,000 ballots cast in the first election a week ago, and that the result would represent the biggest turnover in the Chamber of Deputies since 1885. Last week's vote was the largest total since the end of the Great War.

DEMONSTRATION BROKE UP

Julian Communist attempted to stage a demonstration in the Montmartre district early today in defiance of police regulations.

A huge crowd formed an impromptu parade and were marching along the Boulevard des Italiens, singing the "Internationale" and giving the red salute of the clenched fist when they were forced to disperse by police and members of the mobile guard.

NEW COMMUNIST DEPUTIES

The red wave was not confined to cities and industrial centres. Bethune, of war memorials, returned a Communist. Versailles, where the Roi Soleil held his court, has Communists among its new members. Aubervilliers, where former Premier Pierre Laval is mayor, defeated the ex-Premier's candidate and returned a Communist. Nice, Toulon, and even Bergerac, away in Dordogne, elected Communists.

MUCH EXCITEMENT

As the extent of the Leftist triumph became known, excitement spread along the wide boulevards of the capital. Large groups watched the returns flashed on giant screens. The Place de l'Opera, where The Echo de Paris had its screen, was crowded.

Groups heatedly discussed the returns.

THREE WORKERS KILLED BY BLAST

Greenfield, Mo., May 4.—Three WPA workers were killed, a fourth was probably fatally injured today in a dynamite explosion on a highway project four and one-half miles north of here.

Foreigners Are Reported Wounded

A reaction set in last night, however, the bandits being forced to defend their loot against law-abiding warriors and fleeing reprisals from the advancing Fascists.

The looters began taking to the hills, with the Italians reported reaching the Akaki plain, only ten miles out of the capital, and white flags flying along the highway.

WOMAN FROM U.S. KILLED

The only foreigner known to have been killed in the two days of terror was Mrs. N. A. Stadin, American wife of an Adventist missionary. She was killed in her sleep at dawn yesterday by a bullet which pierced the galvanised roof of the mission.

American women and children who had taken refuge in the United States legation were removed yesterday evening to the opposite side of the capital.

Mrs. Cornelius Van H. Engert, wife of the United States minister, however, remained with her husband and all other male members of the staff at their virtually unfortified legation.

MISSION SAVED

Dr. T. A. Lambie of Toronto, head of the Ethiopian mission service, was attacked at his headquarters by shiftless (bandits) leaving the capital, but members of his staff, barricaded behind barbed wire, beat off the assailants, killing one and wounding one.

The head of the British Red Cross unit, Dr. Melley, was wounded seriously while digging wounded in one of the streets. He suffered a bullet in his lungs, but was rescued, given a blood transfusion, and was expected to survive.

In the centre of the town, eight persons were known to have been slain, but the full number of mutilated bodies could not be determined.

TREASURY SEIZED

One desperate fight centred around the government treasury. A mob stormed the machine gun posts of the "gold house," some dying and others having their hands chopped off in the assault. The raiders, tramping over the bodies of their cohorts, finally succeeded yesterday in seizing the government's store of gold.

Remaining government munition stores were exploded, and the customs house and post office were destroyed by fire, together with the entire business district.

CHEWED BY DOGS

When the reaction set in and the looters left the bloody smouldering ruins of their handiwork, parish dogs came forth in droves for the first time since the destruction started, to gnaw at the mutilated bodies of men and beasts.

With the rioters retreating and organized resistance to the Italian campaign ended, only warriors from the Gallia tribes remained about the capital to oppose the Fascists. Small groups of about twenty warriors each entered the town, armed only with spears. Some women, dressed as men, brandished sabres.

PALACE OPEN

When the Emperor left for Djibouti he ordered the imperial palace to be thrown open to the people and that they be allowed to help themselves. Bureaus of men, women and children were seen running from all directions to the palace. They returned laden with clothing, beds, carpets and furniture.

quarters have been seriously wounded."

AMBASSADOR ACTS
In response to Eni, it's appeal, the State Department reached Robert W. Bingham, Ambassador in London, by telephone and Bingham immediately set out to communicate with the British Foreign Office.

Bingham was assured by British officials they would endeavor to communicate Engrist's request to Addis Ababa, but that nothing had been heard so far today from the British radio station there.

YARD FEPPERED

In describing the first assault on the legations, the minister said William L. Pitts and Cecil F. Cavannah, naval radio men; Vice-Consul Robert L. Hunter, John Spencer and Hartman, a Russian clerk, "rushed fearlessly to take up strategic positions."

A heavy bandit fire came from behind trees and fences as the attack was directed at two widely separated gates between 8.45 and 9 o'clock in the morning. Bullets peppered the back yard where Mrs. Engert and Spencer were standing.

Native servants, including cooks, rushed to the defence with revolvers.

BRITISH MAKE RESCUES

Most British subjects had taken refuge in the British Legation, where a well-organized camp was set up in the legation park. Tributes were paid the Britons, who dashed out time and again to rescue isolated foreigners of all nationalities.

One hundred prosperous residents of the capital, once prosperous, watched from the various legations as their properties were ruined by flames, mounting to the sky.

CORRESPONDENTS MOVE

Foreign correspondents who had barricaded themselves in their own compound near the government wireless station were forced to abandon it under fire shortly before dawn. (Presumably they went to the legations, where thousands of foreigners are quartered.)

During the night the correspondents were constantly subjected to attacks of shifts—or wild bandits.

MISSIONARY WOUNDED

Addis Ababa, May 4.—Alfred Buxton, a British missionary, was slightly wounded in the leg and two Ethiopian women with him in a truck were killed today by bandits in the streets of the capital.

Much of the city was looted. White flags flew from many of the unlooted houses while their occupants hoped the Italian army soon would arrive and restore order.

Reports said an Italian advance guard had reached the Akaki River, ten miles from the capital, last night.

JAPANESE IS BEST ACTRESS

Yuki Yoshida Awarded First Place; N. Buckle Judged Best Actor of Week

For her splendid acting in the title role of David Belasco's "Madame Butterfly," Yuki Yoshida, Victoria-born Japanese girl, was awarded the Beaux Arts Cup for the best individual actress of the week's Drama Festival.

To show their agreement with Miss Cornish's decision, the large audience at the finals Saturday night, which, by the way, remained seated until after midnight—gave charming Miss Yoshida a flattering reception when she walked to the platform to receive her cup. She had changed her magnificent Oriental kimono for the smart western clothes with which she is more familiar.

The proudest pair in the audience at that moment were Miss Yoshida's parents, an old-fashioned Japanese couple from up the island, who were somewhat at a loss to understand their pretty daughter's popularity.

The cup for the best individual actor, presented by the Hudson's Bay Company, was awarded to Norman Buckle for his portrayal of James Dyke, the prisoner in the Obya Club's presentation of "The Valiant." Race Roskelley was judged the best actress in the intermediate section and won the cup presented by Brian Burdon-Murphy. Little Miss Roskelley appeared with the Cole Players in "Potato Soup."

Robert Lindgren, who appeared in the Russian Ballet School's "In a Street," won the H. S. Hurn Cup for the best individual actor in the intermediate section.

Eileen Chatter took the junior section for the best individual actor or actress. She appeared with the Cole Players in "Mrs. Wiggins' Afternoon Tea."

Authorship Cup Goes Up-island

Because Nellie Cornish felt plays with a local background should be encouraged, she awarded the Authorship Cup, in the senior section, presented by Mrs. G. Storey Waller, to Capt. Alexander Ramsay, M.C., for his play, "Salt Justice," presented by the Comox District Theatre Club.

Miss Cornish said she felt this play was badly produced, but that it was a good play and because its plot had to do with this section of the country it should be placed first.

Frances Ebbs-Cavanagh of Victoria received the Authorship Cup presented by Mrs. David Spencer for the junior section. Her play was "Rhymes of a Little Nursery," presented by the Peter Pan Players Wednesday afternoon.

Locally-written Play Is First In Festival

"Cromwell's Chair" Wins The Times Cup For First Place and Audience Votes It the Most Popular; Other Awards Made Saturday Evening

A short comedy with a York-shire locale, "Cromwell's Chair," written by a local girl, Mariel Thompson, was awarded two of the major awards of the Drama Festival Saturday evening. This play competed in the finals with four others and was awarded the chief trophy of the week, The Times Cup. Nellie Cornish of Seattle made the final adjudication after witnessing more than twenty-five plays during the week.

To "Cromwell's Chair" also went the Rose Bowl presented by Mrs. Harry Currie for the most popular play of the week. Members of each night's audience voted on this selection.

HER FIRST PLAY

This clever little comedy—the first written by Miss Thompson, who entered it under the pen name of Constance Gilmour—had Saturday night's audience roaring with laughter. The Yorkshire dialect was perfectly done, according to those who have lived in that county of England. The acting was splendid, the plot full of interest and humor and extremely well handled. Those taking part were Mabel Ridley, Jack Atkinson, Muriel Thompson, Douglas Fin-toff, Christopher Frere and Valerie Swan, all members of the Punch and Judy Theatre Players.

Much of the credit for this fine performance must go to its director, Christopher Frere, who was accorded much applause as he went to the stage with Miss Thompson, who received both trophies from the hands of Mrs. G. M. Weir, wife of the Minister of Education, who, with Mrs. David Leeming, made the presentations.

Miss Cornish said this play on Saturday, as it was earlier in the week, was "even and steady."

WON SECOND PLACE

The cup presented by Jeanette Cusack for the second place in the senior section went to the Victoria Little Theatre Association for its presentation of "The Devil Among the Skins," by Ernest Goodwin and directed by H. S. Hurn. Miss Cornish said she noted a vast improvement in this play over the afternoon performance.

In this group were Arthur Kerr, Fraser Lister, Hugh Creelman and Daisy Smith.

"Madame Butterfly," Miss Cornish said, "came up very much better" than when she had seen it Friday night.

"The Valiant," she said, was longer and slower up somewhat, compared with its earlier presentation.

"The Portrait of a Gentleman in Slippers" showed "good acting and directing."

NANAIMO ENTRY WINS

The Nanaimo Dramatic Academy took the Provincial Challenge Cup, presented by Muriel Wamamaker for the intermediate section. The play was "Why the Chinese Bang," by Elizabeth McPadden and directed by Mrs. A. G. Graham. In the cast were Jack Cooper, Glen Hurst, Jack Reynolds, Joyce Hann, Olive Burnip, Barbara Monk, Glen Lewis and Raymond Hann.

The Cole Players, in "The Princess Who Hid Her Shoes," by Harriet Wright and under the direction of Enid Cole, was awarded the Provincial Challenge Cup in the junior section, presented by Premier Pattullo. In this play were Ronald Grant, Dorothy Smith, June Short, Velma McLoire and Billie Chatter.

VANCOUVER WINS

The David Leeming Cup, presented in the senior section for the best mainland play, went to the Don-machie Players of Vancouver, who presented "Drumgath." The Audrey Hadow Cup, presented for the best mainland intermediate play, outside Vancouver, went to the Powell River Dramatic Society for "Thirst."

The Victoria Daily Colonist Cup was won by the Cowichan Players, who presented "Portrait of a Gentleman in Slippers," by A. A. Milne, and under the direction of Mollie Big-wood. In this cast were A. deC. Denny, Gordon Appleby, May Lundie and A. S. M. Appleby.

The Nanaimo Dramatic Academy took the Mrs. P. E. Corby Cup for the best play in the intermediate section outside Greater Victoria.

Again Saturday evening, the Warn-cliffe Trio gave much pleasure between the plays with musical selections.

SEES NEED OF THEATRE

Dr. G. M. Weir Expresses Hope Victoria May Have Provincial Theatre

"We have quite a number of Arm-ories in Canada, and sometimes think we need a National Theatre as much as we need an Armory," said Dr. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education, when addressing the final night audience at the Drama Festival Saturday evening.

"I hope we shall have a National Theatre in Canada before long," he continued, "and I hope we shall have a Provincial Theatre. Although I live in Vancouver I think the Provincial Theatre should be in Victoria. You have here a beautiful city, although Vancouver comes a close second and in some respects takes first place."

Dr. Weir bespoke encouragement for "those who have imaginative potentialities that can be developed."

"We are building motion picture houses on practically every corner," he said. "In fact they are becoming almost as common as gas stations. I think we might have as many theatres as libraries."

"But the public taste is being educated," he continued, "and will in time demand a real theatre for dramatic work. In this we have a movement that is going to assist the schools, and is going to react very beneficially to everyone. I hope sometime we will have a real provincial theatre."

Dr. Weir said he would not care to be in the position of the adjudicator at a Drama Festival. He said he did not know enough about the technical end of the drama to speak much about it "unless he spoke with the confidence of ignorance."

"I congratulate the people of Victoria on their increasing dramatic talent," Dr. Weir concluded. "On Vancouver Island there have developed a number of real dramatic artists."

Nellie Cornish Praises Talent

"I have seen so much really excellent work, both individually and in groups," said Nellie Cornish of Seattle in her final adjudications of the week's Drama Festival at the Shrine Auditorium Saturday evening.

"I thought at times the week would never end, but now that it is here, I am sorry," she said. "At first I was a little discouraged, but as the week went on I could see a great improvement."

"I feel you have some excellent dramatic talent in Victoria, and I look for some great things from British Columbia."

She urged all who had taken part in the festival to work hard during the coming year, "for we can grow enormously in a year's time."

She said she would look forward to returning to Victoria next season for the Drama Festival where, then, she would be an interested spectator.

BUILDING UP IN MUNICIPALITIES

Construction totals in Saanich showed a pronounced gain, while those in Oak Bay and Esquimalt held close to the levels established in 1935, a survey of April and the first four months of the year to date revealed.

In Saanich the April total was $30,416, representing forty-five permits, against $18,995, representing thirty-one, in the similar month last year.

The four-month total ending April 30 was $68,907, against $74,945 for the same period in 1935.

Oak Bay's total last month amounted to $36,775, against $37,900 for April, 1935. Figures since the beginning of the year amounted to $103,310, against $104,397 for the corresponding months in 1935.

April figures in Esquimalt showed a drop of $25 from those of the corresponding month last year, the total for the last month being $1,525.

At a public meeting in Marigold Hall next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, Norman W. Whitaker, M.P.P., for Saanich, will give an account of provincial affairs to his constituents. Carew Martin will also speak. An invitation to attend is extended to all those interested.

HOT WATER, CRYSTAL CLEAR FROM A MONEL METAL TANK

HOT WATER is one of the greatest comforts and necessities of human life.

What a pleasure to turn on the tap and see the water running crystal clear, clean and sparkling—fit for your morning cup of hot water or baby's bath.

That is the kind of hot water that comes from a Monel Metal Tank. For Monel Metal, due to its wonderful physical qualities, is the ideal metal for holding hot water always clean and ready for any personal or household use.

Monel Metal is strong as steel, close textured, corrosion and rust-resisting, therefore it keeps water always clear and uncontaminated. It is solid metal with no plating to chip or wear off and will last a lifetime.

Because of these outstanding qualities, Monel Metal is being put to many useful services throughout the home and in hotels, restaurants and hospitals. In the really modern kitchen, lending glistening beauty, it is used for sinks and working surfaces, because it is sanitary, easily cleaned and lessens dish clatter and breakage. On stoves it forms an ideal cooking and working surface and is especially adapted for oven linings. For interior decorating in the modern metal motifs, it is unsurpassed and has a platinum-like finish which lends distinction and is everlasting.

Whether you are building or renovating, consider Monel Metal and its many useful services. Its cost is not high. Its services are satisfying and its beauty great.

And always remember that while used throughout the world for hundreds of industrial and household purposes, Monel is a Canadian metal produced from ore mined at the Sudbury Nickel mines.

MR. HART'S BRIGHT PICTURE

THE FINANCIAL PICTURE presented by Mr. Hart in his statement last Saturday is the most satisfactory which British Columbia has seen for a long time—certainly since the beginning of the depression in 1929.

It reflects two things—Mr. Hart's ability to deal up his treasury, to get his revenues in, and a growing income generally. A few years ago the government had begun to borrow annually millions of dollars to pay off deficits incurred on current operations. In the last two years Mr. Hart has reversed this position by piling up current surpluses of $4,500,000. This has enabled him to pay off his $3,500,000 bond maturity of May 15 out of cash on hand in the bank, to reduce the provincial debt by that amount without touching his sinking funds.

But more important even than this immediate advantage is the fact, now clear, that British Columbia is well out of the pit of the depression and that its finances are being rebuilt on a sound foundation. Mr. Hart found a very sick patient when he took over the treasury. The patient is responding splendidly to his treatment.

As the minister is careful to point out, however, we are by no means out of the woods yet. We are paying all our ordinary current expenditures out of revenue, even paying off some debt; but we are still borrowing for unemployment relief, like all the other provinces. We are not setting up all our sinking funds, and we have yet to replace large amounts borrowed from trust funds.

Until we can cover all these charges out of income, says Mr. Hart, we should pursue a policy of strict economy. The government, in addition, must provide assistance for the municipalities at the autumn session of the Legislature, and this will involve a new drain on the treasury, perhaps more taxation. British Columbia has just passed through a banner year for provincial revenue, has collected more than ever before, but still more is required.

FRANCE GOES HEAVILY "LEFT"

THE SECOND AND FINAL ROUND of the French general elections conducted yesterday has given the "Front Populaire"—the "Leftists"—a comfortable working majority over the "Rightists"—denominated the "Reactionaries"—in the next Chamber of Deputies. As this is written, the groups which constitute the composite radical wing had elected 375 members, while the "Right" and Centrist groups had 238 seats to their credit.

So many parties had entered candidates in this election, nearly 4,900 to fill 618 seats, that it is not a very simple matter to unscramble their political beliefs. The "Left," however, is made up of Communists, Socialists, United Socialists and Radical-Socialists, while the opposing coalition has grouped its followers under the title of "National Front." On the first ballot, last week only a third of the candidates for the new Chamber had obtained the required majority to insure their election. On that account, 385 retired, but 515 new candidates entered the lists. The final test yesterday indicated that the "Left" had conducted an efficient campaign.

Very considerable interest in this election, of course, has been manifested in view of the tension which exists between France and Germany as a result of Hitler's reoccupation of the formerly demilitarized Rhineland zone. Great Britain and other European countries want to see a stabilized France. The present state of European politics demands it—if peace can look forward to any reliable guarantee. It was only natural that the government at the Quai d'Orsay should make known in no uncertain terms its objection to Germany's breach of faith. Then, again, Germany equally naturally reminded France that her progressive rearmament was just as much a breach of solemn agreements to keep the peace as Germany's reoccupation of territory which, after all, is a part of Germany, solemn agreements notwithstanding.

There is one more or less comforting consideration which is worth bearing in mind, and it is the speculation upon what might have happened twenty-four hours after German troops marched into Cologne and other areas of the Rhineland—which to German troops, under the restrictions of the Treaty of Versailles, had been "verboten"—if there had been at the helm of state in France, for example, a Poincaré or a Clemenceau. Actually there was no real panic in France, as there might have been under some former regimes.

True, the "Front Populaire" draws much of its support from the Communist element, and Communists have taken a more than ordinarily active part in the election—they will number more than eighty in the next Chamber.

Communism in modern France is not supposed to be of such a violent form as that with which this theory of politics usually is associated. And it should not be forgotten that behind nearly the score of groups that have been fighting it out on the hustings, in the newspapers, and on the uniform bill-board appeal for the suffrage, are the two instinctively Conservative classes, the rentier—meaning the people who do not have to worry about where the next meal is coming from—and the peasant, composing a large majority of the French people, at the other end of the so-called social scale, neither of which wants extremism either from the "Left" or "Right."

It can be taken for granted, moreover, that no matter what attitude is manifested by French governments, no matter by what classes they are dominated, there obviously is a desire in that country among the people who know what war and all its despoliation mean, a growing desire for the discovery of some sort of formula that will put an end to the tension which has been worrying everybody for the last few months.

Although the "Left" coalition will go into the new Chamber with its comfortable working majority, it remains to be seen how far consolidation of view, as opposed to the "Right-Fascist-Conservative-Reactionary" coalition, will be possible. With its majority, of course, its large following will be able to withstand the effect of considerable defection. However, one thing appears to be plain, and that is, as a result of yesterday's final political test, there is likely to be no serious upheaval.

LEAVE THE LIBRARY ALONE

THERE ARE ECONOMIES AND economies, but the City Council would be effecting no economy by curtailing the efficient service which the Public (Carnegie) Library has rendered to this community for many years. By the suggestion of curtailing the service of this institution, of course, is meant that the financial grant shall be reduced.

What should be borne in mind is that the majority of people who patronize the library depend upon it, not only for recreational literary study, but also for important educational purposes. Then it may not be out of place to point out that to begin to be niggardly in the matter of financial support to the library would be no compliment to the memory of the philanthropist who made its establishment possible. It is to be hoped the City Council will take out its microscope and look in other fields for economies it can effect before it begins with that useful branch of the public service at the corner of Yates and Blanshard.

MR. D. B. PLUNKETT

IT IS WITH SINCERE REGRET THE Times today has to announce the death in hospital yesterday, after a brief illness, of Mr. D'Arcy Britton Plunkett, who has represented this city in the House of Commons since the winter of 1928. It seems only a few days ago that Mr. Plunkett was enjoying his usual good health, but he apparently developed a condition in a very short time which brought on pneumonia and other complications, the combination of which were apparently too much for his constitution.

The Times felt bound on many occasions to disagree with the policies to which Mr. Plunkett gave his support as a Conservative member and an adherent to the political tenets of the party led by former Premier Bennett. This newspaper quite understood that there were many times when the member for this city would have liked to have made his voice more effectively felt in Victoria's behalf. But the private member is not always at liberty to follow unreservedly the course of his convictions.

It will be recalled that in the by-election of December, 1928, Mr. Plunkett, who had been practically unknown as a political factor in Victoria, obtained the nomination from the Conservative party to oppose former provincial Premier J. D. McLean, whose government had been defeated in the fall of that year. His victory was somewhat of a surprise. In the general election of 1930, he again was successful, still retaining his seat in the contest when his party was defeated last year.

WHAT A VICTORY!

ADDIS ABABA, CAPITAL OF ETHIOPIA, is in flames, Emperor Haile Selassie has fled, and the Italians have entered or are about to enter the city.

The flames of Addis Ababa will be observed of men in every part of the world. By their light can be seen many things not pleasant to behold. Here, in burning Addis Ababa, is the climax of man's attempt to outlaw war and protect the weak against the strong malefactor. Here is the final humiliation of the League of Nations, which men set up to end anarchy and establish a rule of law and order between peoples. Here is the capital of a member of the League, looted and burned, and the League, which is bound by solemn covenant to protect all its members, is about to meet once more in futile council to decide what should be done to save Ethiopia—already conquered.

When Japan was able to march across Manchuria and acquire it by the ancient method of conquest, the League investigated, but did not act. Its prestige in the world was badly damaged, but men of goodwill still hoped that, after this one defeat, it might strengthen itself and face the next issue of war and peace with courage and determination.

The next issue was not long in coming. Italy, violating the solemn undertakings of the League covenant and the Kellogg Pact, invaded a League nation whose rights were as solemnly protected by contract as those of the strongest member. This was the League's supreme test of usefulness in the world, for if Ethiopia could be overrun and stolen from its owners by a single nation bent on conquest, what safety was there for the other members? What assurance had they that, in the event of invasion, the League would rally to their support if it did not suit the convenience of the dominant League nations?

From the beginning, the League was stultified in the Ethiopian dispute, and the efforts of British diplomacy hampered by the spiderweb of secret agreements and understandings between the European nations—by France's private arrangements with Mussolini, by the fear of Italy joining with Fascism in Germany, by the danger of weakening the Stresa front against Hitler.

Now this flimsy structure of cross purposes and selfish nationalism has crashed down so that all men can see its flimsiness and futility. Addis Ababa, capital of an independent League nation, has called for the League's protection, has invoked the sacred promises of the nations, and it lies today in flames. Thus fades in the light of the burning city the torch of liberty and law which men lighted in the world after the Great War, the thing for which millions of young men died in the cause of "the war to end war."

WARNING!

The Times urges its correspondents to restrict their contributions to 600 words. Henceforth it positively will not print communications which exceed that length.

These letters must be plainly written on one side of the paper only, and must be accompanied by the name and address of the writer, and necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Letters will not be re-written for publication. If they are not legible no attempt will be made to read them.

Letters not used will not be returned to the writers. Letters containing offensive personal reflections will not be printed.

These rules, which henceforth will be carried out absolutely, are designed to secure for the publication of our patient readers as for that of The Times.

CAUTION!

The Times will not assume responsibility for the return to the writers of articles sent for publication. In the Correspondence Column or anywhere else in this newspaper, whether they are published or not, unless they have been specially solicited.

AS A TOURIST SEES US

To the Editor:—Being a Canadian who has taken a leisurely tour through California, I thought it would not be out of place to drop you a friendly line as I am very much taken with the tourist possibilities of Vancouver Island.

One of the great troubles I see, is that your people are not alive to your advantages. Your country is so different, and consequently so attractive to visitors, for goodness sake keep it different and make it look as much British as possible; it is by far your best selling point.

Another thing you should combine and work vigorously upon is the reduction of your auto ferry fares on to the island, as the general impression is they are unreasonably high, and this is preventing a lot of business you otherwise should be getting.

The general feeling is so strong on this point, it would pay every live public body to combine and see if a proper readjustment of the auto ferry rates could not be made quickly before your tourist season really starts, and if this is done you should be rewarded by a bumper crop for 1936.

GLOOMY TECHNOCRACY?

To the Editor:—In your issue of April 22 reporting a talk on Technocracy by Mr. W. E. Walter (the name is Walter, not Walker), I would like to correct a misleading report on same. It may be the reporter failed to follow the speaker, or perhaps he so cut his write-up that it gave the reader a false impression. To quote one paragraph: "The ultimate breakdown of the price system was foreseen by Mr. Walter, who drew a gloomy picture of the future. He predicted a complete collapse of industry and distribution, a return to a barbaric state, and the complete wiping out of humanity except for a few swarthy and brawny who have learned enough to look after themselves."

Mr. Walter did state that such a chaotic condition could happen if the wheels of this highly technical production of this continent were permitted to stop. He explained that the breakdown of the price system need have nothing to do with the operation of the machinery of production, it being a function of Technocracy to induce men to stay on the job, also being able to supply pinch-hitters when necessary, while putting into operation the "Technocracy" in order to avoid the collapse referred to above.

To quote the headline, "Technocrat Has Gloomy Outlook," Mr. Walter painted a picture of this North American continent, giving some idea of the standard of living under a Technate. He explained how facts collected by Technocracy Inc. show that it is possible to give every person on this continent the equivalent in goods and services to twenty thousand ($20,000) 1926 dollars, in fact he stated that functioning under a Technocratic plan it would be doubtful if we could consume the output of this high energy state, which will have reached 200,000,000,000 calories of extraneous energy per person by 1940.

Now, Mr. Editor, of course I don't know the standard of living of a reporter, perhaps this is gloomy to him, but to most people the picture Technocracy paints is not so gloomy.

OBJECT TO PROPOSED CUT

To the Editor:—Having read in the press of the proposed drastic cut in the library grant we wish as a body to protest against this action on the part of the council. We feel that the cut would cause a great loss to the reading public, owing to the extensive use of the library by citizens who would be unable otherwise to obtain reading material.

by the judge, nor did she attempt to place this or the other plays in their relative order of merit. She gave no marks for staging, co-operative effort, elocution, or any other feature of the play, no constructive criticism likely to help the actors in their future work, no encouragement or praise for what they had succeeded in achieving.

Surely if these drama festivals are to be of any value to the actors, the judge must offer constructive criticism, assess the merits and demerits of the plays and their relative positions to one another in the final adjudication, allowing no personal prejudice to stand in the way of due appreciation of the qualities of each, encouraging the children whatever their success or failure to go on with their dramatic work.

SLAM BY GRAND COUP

End Play Completes Contract As Hand Is Stripped Down to Equal Opponent's Trump Holding

By WM. E. MCKENNEY

A grand coup play is not as difficult to make as some of the esoteric plays, but it is very rare, because all the cards have to be just right and declarer is apt to overlook the play.

Today's hand is particularly unusual, as it is a quadruple grand coup. In other words, declarer has to get rid of four of his trump. SOLUTION TO PREVIOUS CONTRACT PROBLEM

North's bid of two hearts over his partner's call of one diamond is a slam demand. If South makes any response other than two no trump, it means that the bidding will continue until the partnership reaches at least a small slam contract. When South bid two spades, North realized that no further bidding would help him on the hand, and he might just as well bid boldly for a slam.

East's normal opening of the king of clubs was trumped by declarer with the deuce of hearts. The ace of hearts was cashed and, to declarer's disappointment, East showed out, discarding the four of clubs. A small diamond was discarded from dummy.

DELEGATES TO BE SELECTED

Local Conservatives Preparing For Party Convention in Vancouver

Conservatives of the Victoria and Esquimalt districts announced plans today for selecting their delegates to the party convention in Vancouver on June 15 and 16, when a new leader will be chosen.

Party delegates from Victoria will be named by ward organizations at meetings in the next few weeks. With eight others who are already members of the provincial body they will voice the opinions of local Conservatives on the leadership question.

The schedule of meetings follows: Ward One, May 7; Ward Two, May 13; Ward Three, May 22; Ward Four, May 15; Ward Five, May 20; Wards Six and Seven (Oak Bay), May 12. Esquimalt, Sanich and other associations are making their own arrangements for the selection of delegates. Mr. Willis said.

The Esquimalt District Conservative Association will hold a special meeting at Shawigan Lake on May 14 in the S.L.A.A. Hall. With E. V. Finland, president, in the chair, delegates to the Vancouver convention will be chosen. The main speakers will be Dr. Frank P. Patterson, president of the B.C. Conservative Association, and R. H. Pooley, K.C., M.P.P. for Esquimalt.

Declarer had no finesse over West, so he had to try for a coup play. He had to shorten himself down to the same number of trump as held by West.

The six of diamonds was won in dummy with the ace. A club was played from dummy and ruffed by declarer. Declarer led the deuce of spades winning in dummy with the queen. Another club was returned and ruffed.

He played another spade and won in dummy with the king. A diamond was returned and ruffed. The third spade was played and won in dummy with the ace. Another diamond was trumped.

This left declarer with the K-10-9 of hearts, and West with the Q-J-8. Declarer simply led the ten of hearts, thereby end-playing West and, in this manner, losing only one heart trick. A quadruple grand coup combined with an end play gave declarer his contract.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

Just before Metis, goddess of wisdom, was to give birth to a child, her husband, the great god Zeus, swallowed her! And so, when the time of birth arrived, Hephaestus clung the head of Zeus and out sprang the child in full armor.

By this legendary beginning, the goddess Athena was endowed with the power of her father and the wisdom of her mother. As goddess of war, she was distinct from Mars, for her wars were always just. She could hurl thunderbolts, prolong the life of man and foretell the future. Athena made her its patron goddess and built to her what is perhaps the most famous of all Greek temples and one of the most beautiful examples of ancient Greek architecture still extant.

When Bellerophon was sent to slay the dread Chimera, Athena tamed the flying horse, Pegasus, so that he might ride it. Appropriately the new seven-day postage stamp in the recent mythological series of Greece presents this famous goddess holding the bridle of Pegasus.

DR. ROBERTSON'S STORY OF MINE ENTOMBMENT

Dramatic Narrative of Moose River Gold Mine Disaster, Dictated by Toronto Surgeon From His Bed in Halifax Gen. Hospital, Graphically Describes Experiences of Victims Imprisoned Underground While Heroic Rescue Efforts Were Being Made

Herewith The Victoria Daily Times publishes the second chapter of Dr. D. E. Robertson's own story of the dreadful mine entombment of Herman R. Magill, Alfred Scadding and himself. Saturday the doctor described the circumstances leading up to their descent into the mine, the rending of their channels of escape and the horrible realization that they were likely to lose their lives.

By DR. D. E. ROBERTSON
(World Copyright by the Red Cross of Canada. Distributed by The Toronto Star newspaper Service)

Halifax, April 26.—Having missed death in the first unexpected move, we soon found that the period of most intense excitement had passed; that we were still living and capable of rational thought and action.

I was more than satisfied with the quality of the men. They had themselves well in hand and, although tense and quiet, did not lose grip on themselves or show their feelings, and from them I was able to reap a large store of confidence.

Magill asked me how long it took a man to starve to death, and I told him that there would be no difficulty in going two or three weeks without food, but starvation would not be a factor in this. Questions of a similar nature were asked me, having to do with the medical end of it in such situations, but we agreed that we would have to establish ourselves in a definite place and that we must do this while our lights still lasted. We counted on the lantern for some eighteen hours, and the miner's lamp for some shorter period of time.

We immediately hit upon a plan of building a fire in order to warm ourselves and to dry ourselves if possible. It was very cold in the mine. The absolute temperature was not low, I fancy somewhere in the 50's, but under the circumstances it seemed very cold. We shivered freely through cold, and fear or nervousness.

I suggested that this was a physiological reaction and that we should not try to restrain these shivers but to give them full rein, and in this way stimulate circulation, as it was a method by which we could warm ourselves.

LIGHTING FIRE BIG TASK

We searched the cross-cuts for wood that was burnable, and we found a small box made of thin, soft wood which had been used for carrying dynamite. Just a little to the south of the landing stage we pulled a big piece of fallen rock into a circular position. It was about three yards in diameter. On this, Alf, who had a knife, began to make splinters. While he engaged in this a large piece of rock fell from the hanging wall and barely missed his head. I got a thrill when I saw the way in which he pushed it out of his way.

We then moved our burning-stones to a position where it was under some timbering, which protected us against any more falling rock from directly over us. We got the fire started by using the miner's lamp, and by means of incessant blowing, with our faces close down to the fire.

In like condition. We kept our fire going a matter of sixteen hours, but it was only by dint of continuous blowing by one or two that it was kept alight at all.

It was during this time, I think, that we all first complained of numbness in the feet, which I recognized as the beginning of trench foot, particularly in my case, as my shoes were not tight. I suspected that Alf's boots were laced too tight. Magill took the opportunity of changing his socks, or at least taking them off and trying to warm and dry them. During the hours we had this fire we were able to warm stones and pass them out where a man could take one and use it where he felt it would be most good.

MAGILL FEARED FLOODING

We discussed ways and means of the method of rescue.

Magill and Alf, but Magill particularly, were apprehensive of the flooding of the mine. We knew definitely that the water was at the 370-foot level at the time of the collapse, and with the great increase in the amount of water we thought was coming into the mine, it was considered that it might not be long before the water level rose to a point where we would be driven from our present level.

That left us definitely one or two places to which we might go. If rescue were to come directly down the shaft which had collapsed, then we would be wise to stay in the shaft, retreating upward if we were driven by the water. If rescue came through one of the stopes to the east, then we would be better off in the stopes.

However, these discussions had to do with the flooding of the mine, and from the tremendous cavern below, it seemed impossible it would come up to our level before other incidents occurred which would nullify its significance. We felt confident that our fire had given a smoke signal which would be recognized for what it was worth. Tapping on the broken pipes had not brought any response.

We had found in the mine something that was of the utmost importance; that was a cup, a large granite cup, and close to our fire stone we had a pipe delivering a fine stream of clear water.

BECAME NAUSEATED

It seemed to us that after we had been in the mine for twelve hours (Magill and Alf had their wrist-watches) we could hear blasting, but it sounded a long distance off, but it gave us great hope that an attempt was being made to deliver us. None of us had any practical idea as to the technique of such a delivery—whether or not a new shaft would be sunk or whether the old one could be mined out.

The last method we all rather shuddered at. We thought of the last two feet penetrating into the shaft, and what might happen when it was displaced.

Almost immediately after lighting our fire, Magill and I became nauseated; we began to vomit. Periods of vomiting were followed by almost continuous hiccupping. Early I urged my companions to drink large quantities of water, warning them that if they did not they would quickly weaken themselves. Alf apparently had a fine digestive system which is not easily upset.

After eighteen hours our fire had gone, our lanterns had gone out. We cleaned the fire off the stone and lay on it for warmth. We piled some stones on the east side to serve as a pillow or head rest, and with Alf lying in the northerly position, Magill next, I was in the southerly.

We curled up as close as we could get, body to body, and lay in this fashion, first on one side and then on the other.

At intervals we would doze, and almost continuously Magill and I retched and had hiccupping. I made them get up at intervals and stand on their feet, in the hope that they would stamp some circulation into their limbs, and in this way preserve vitality. It got more increasingly difficult to stand, on account of the loss of sensation in the feet.

FEARED ONE MIGHT FALL

The indigestion from which Magill and I suffered was very distressing. One's throat was sore from vomiting. If one took a large amount of water it would be comfort of a degree for twenty or thirty minutes, following which the whole content of the stomach would again reach a high degree of acidity, and the sooner it was emptied out the sooner the retching and hiccupping would be under control.

To begin to do anything would require a certain amount of preparation. We would have to warn each other that one of us wanted to move. The flashlight would have to be got ready.

We watched each other very closely, fearing that the one moving in the dark might inadvertently fall through one of the openings.

(Dr. Robertson's engrossing narrative strikes a tragic note in tomorrow's chapter when he tells of the death of Herman R. Magill).

R. L. MONTGOMERY DIES

Fuyallup, Wash., May 4 (Associated Press).—A funeral service will be held here tomorrow for the late Robert L. Montgomery. The veteran publisher and University of Washington regent, sixty-three years old, died yesterday after a short illness. He was editor and publisher of The Valley Tribune, which he founded in 1903, gaining renown as a commentator.

STARTING causes 3/4 of your engine's wear

The result of today's "stop-and-go" driving... but now a new oil REDUCES THIS WEAR

YOU step on the starter 10 times a day... 3,500 times a year (business cars are started 15,000 times). Instantly over 100 metal parts rub together!

If your engine is cold—and the oil is too thick (like molasses)—it cannot flow quickly enough to reach all these moving parts.

As a result, your engine often runs comparatively "dry" of oil for a few seconds. The starting period, say engineers, can cause approximately 75% of engine wear.

Is it any wonder that motors lose their quiet, new-car "purr"... that hundreds of thousands of cars each year need new piston rings? Re-bored cylinders? New bearings? And other repairs costing from $10 to $100?

This is why leading motor car manufacturers urge the use of faster-flowing lubricating oils. "But," they warn, "these oils must not break down under the heat of steady running."

And so, at a cost of over $3,000,000, Shell has developed a new oil—an oil especially made for today's "stop-and-go" driving.

The new Golden Shell Motor Oil is FAST-FLOWING and yet TOUGH... so that it lubricates quickly in starting, yet under high heat Golden Shell holds its body and resists breaking down into sludge and carbon.

Automotive engineers... leading oil technicians... and professors in large universities, assert that the process behind the new Golden Shell Motor Oil is the most important advance in oil refining during the last twenty-five years.

Start protecting your engine with Golden Shell today. Now ready at over 30,000 neighborly Shell stations from coast to coast.

WIN MAY DAY FETE CONTESTS

Saturday's attendance at the May Day fete at St. Ann's Convent was as satisfactory and enjoyable as on the opening day. The sports programme was repeated, and among the many visitors who witnessed these exercises was Mayor Leeming. The tea-room, in charge of the Equimait Subdivision Catholic Women's League under the co-operation of the president, Mrs. P. J. Harris, was well patronized. Mrs. Harris was assisted by Mrs. M. Pagan, Mrs. H. Pairs, Mrs. T. O'Leary, Mrs. Gerald Pagan, Mrs. F. Hurry, Mrs. J. Matheson, Mrs. H. Craven and Mrs. Malcolm Smyth. In connection with the tea-room, a ham drawn for during the afternoon was won by Mrs. J. Matheson, Regina Avenue.

Prize-winners in contests held on Friday and Saturday were as follows: Pilet lace and cutwork cloth, Mrs. Porter, Vancouver Street; picture, Little Flower Academy, Vancouver; luncheon set, Mrs. A. Grant, Blanchard Street; electric toaster, Hon. John Hart, Fairfield Road; lamp shade, Mr. John Reid, Ward Street; ham, Bishop MacDonald; $5 scrip, Mr. H. C. Brown, Quebec Street; $5 scrip, Mrs. McCaffrey, Farrelton, Que.; statue of St. Joseph, Mrs. Monteith, McClure Street; grocery hamper, Mrs. Hughes, Richardson Street; doll, Shelia McBrady, Collinson Street; box of candy, Mrs. Davis, Wellington Avenue; Pyrex dish, Mrs. Costello, Croft Street.

EPICURES WILL EAT IN SILENCE

Canadian Press
New York, May 4.—One hundred epicureans, getting ready to dine tonight, ruled napkins must be tucked in collars.

The "Friends of Ecoffier," a society recently organized with the primary purpose of eating, set that and other rules.

"At the serving of each new plate, absolute silence will reign, for one cannot appreciate good food in the midst of uproarious noise."

"Wines must be drunk during the course for which they are intended. "Smoking will be absolutely forbidden up to the time dessert is served. A person who smokes while eating does not deserve the title of 'gourmet.'"

The society was named for the late August Ecoffier, a famous chef.

Graduate Nurses.—The regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Graduate Nurses Association will be held on May 5, in the Nurses' Home, St. Joseph's Hospital, at 8 o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be Mrs. E. O. Robinson, her topic being "Parliamentary Procedure."

HER PLAY WINS TWO MAJOR AWARDS

Miss Muriel C. Thompson, whose play "Cromwell's Chair" won The Times Cup for the best play in the senior section at the Drama Festival last week and the Currie Rose Bowl for the most popular play, Christopher Freer directed this play, which received high praise from Nellie Cornish of Seattle, the adjudicator, and much applause from the audience.

On Saturday evening, at "Chedon," Fennance Road, the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Gage, Mr. R. E. Heale received gifts and congratulations of friends and relatives on his seventy-ninth birthday. Mr. Wakefield recited a very appropriate toast for the occasion. Singing, games and contests were enjoyed by the guests, most of them being prize-winners. A sketch entitled "How Not to Do Shakespeare," with Mrs. E. J. Gage as Juliet and Mr. J. Wakefield as Romeo, caused much laughter, while Mr. A. Lane as a modern Salome demanding the head of "Old Man Depression" proved another laughing matter. Supper was served at midnight. Silver vases of yellow tulips and greenery, and tapers in flower holders were the decoration used for the table and birthday cake. Favors for the guests were in matching color. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Lane, Mrs. Drury and Miss Drury, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wakefield, Mrs. F. Kemp, Mr. and Mrs. A. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Morrison, Mr. R. Heale, Mr. and Mrs. T. Puthorp and Mr. G. Heale. The singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "Auld Lang Syne" brought a pleasant evening to a close.

Among the guests registered at the Dominion Hotel are: Mr. and Mrs. W. Buxton, Miss M. De Carlo, Mrs. Mrs. E. P. Armstrong, New Westminster; Mr. A. H. Hill, Vancouver; Mr. J. M. "IRON" MAN FELLED BY UNSUSPECTED FOE

Body Poisons Slowed Him Up

SAME THING HAPPENED TO ME LAST YEAR... WASN'T EATING RIGHT... DIDN'T GET ENOUGH BULK FOOD. NOW I'M A POST'S BRAN FLAKES FAN. IT CERTAINLY HELPED TO FIX ME UP.

THAT "all washed up" feeling is a stealthy foe of health and happiness. So often it is due to constipation which sets up poisons in the body. Post's Bran Flakes With Other Parts of Wheat helps the body to fight constipation caused by insufficient roughage in the diet. Eat it regularly. Because of its delicious flavour, many vote Post's Bran Flakes their favourite cereal. A physician should be consulted for stubborn cases.

BLIND GUESTS OF I.O.D.E. CHAPTER

Members of the Robert Burns McKicking Chapter, I.O.D.E., were hostesses to fifty of their blind friends and escorts at a tea Saturday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. The regent, Miss Hilda Margetta, welcomed the guests as they arrived. Tea was served at a table prettily decorated with spring flowers. In charge of the tea arrangements were Mrs. W. L. Williams and Mrs. C. Sangster, who were assisted by Mrs. Nelson Hicks, Mrs. W. Wilson, Mrs. R. Shanks and the Misses A. and C. Chow. Gladys Townsend, Helen Bolt and Nita Henaley.

On behalf of the blind guests, Mr. Crocker expressed appreciation to the hostesses and Miss Stark also added a few words of thanks to the chapter. Miss Hilda Margetta replied on behalf of the chapter. The afternoon was spent in a delightfully informal way, the guests sitting about and chatting with their friends before and after tea.

Chapter To Meet—The Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter will meet on Thursday afternoon at the headquarters, 303 Union Building. All members are particularly asked to attend.

Blossom-time Pretty Affair

Daughters of Pity Hostesses at Successful Tea at Nurses' Home

Masses of fragrant apple and cherry blossom transformed the recreation room of the Nurses' Home at the Royal Jubilee Hospital into a spring bower for the delightful "blossom-time tea" held on Saturday afternoon. The Daughters of Pity were the sponsors and, as usual, with their undertakings, the affair was an outstanding success, both from the social and financial aspect.

Miss Kathleen Roberts, the president, was assisted in receiving the guests by Miss Lena Mitchell, director of nursing; Miss Doris Hibberson, supervisor of the children's ward, and Miss Irene Bannerman.

A silver basket of pink tulips centered the tea table, where Mrs. Russell Robertson, Mrs. George Jay, Mrs. John Phetean and Mrs. J. D. Hunter poured tea. Miss Marjorie Tait convoked the tea, assisted by the members. Miss Alma Hill had charge of the tea tickets.

A pretty candy stall was in charge of Mrs. E. W. Hawkes and Miss Irene Edwards. The water color, painted and donated by Miss L. Sylvester, was won by Mrs. R. Dowse.

Miss Bannerman was responsible for the entertaining programme. Solos were sung by Mrs. H. C. Corbett, Mrs. Bert Noel and Miss Doris Rawlins, and the accompanists were Mrs. Pierre Timp, Mrs. Ruby Moore, Mrs. M. Blay and Miss Margaret Pringle. Mrs. Fred Eilers delighted the guests with piano and violin solos. Pupils of Voice were: Thelma Kadimus, Shirley Anderson, Evelyn Simpson, Lois Russell and June Gibson.

The proceeds will be devoted to the Daughters of Pity's work in aid of the children's ward.

OLD GIRLS IN GAY REUNION

St. Margaret's School Scene of Annual Old Girls' Day

About 100 members of the Old Girls' Association, together with this year's matriculation class, were guests at the luncheon held at St. Margaret's School on Saturday as the main event of the annual "Old Girls' Day."

Miss Barbara Grant, the president, presided, and with her at the head table were Mrs. D. M. Duncan, the principal, Mrs. K. B. Spurgin, former headmistress of the school, and Miss Jane Kirkland, president of the Vancouver branch of the Old Girls' Association. The affair was held in the school dining-room, the tables being arranged with red tulips and narcissi, reflecting the school colors of red and white.

TOASTS GIVEN

Mrs. Duncan proposed the toast to "The King," after which Mrs. Andrew Mellin proposed the toast to St. Margaret's, a former principal now in England, to whom cabled greetings from the association were sent. Miss Betty Street proposed the toast to St. Margaret's, Miss Diana Darling of the 1934 class responding.

Miss Grant welcomed the guests and told of the association's active interest in the school, having assisted last year with the purchase of curtains for the stage in the gymnasium and given a donation towards the scholarship fund.

Mrs. Duncan spoke of school activities and future plans. She referred to the "achievement gallery," which had been started, with photographs of former pupils who are achieving distinction in various fields, and spoke with regret of the passing of Constance Rowe and Myrtle Bryce, two former pupils. Mrs. Spurgin and Miss Jane Kirkland of the Vancouver Branch, also spoke briefly.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

At the business session the following officers were elected: President, Miss Betty Barty; vice-president, Miss Kathleen Wilson; secretary-treasurer, Miss Dorothy Kennedy; social committee, Miss Vivian Combs, Miss Margot Robertson, Miss Margaret Sheret and Miss Wendy Pinhorn. The secretary's report was read by Miss Gladys Bayley, and the sum of $85 was voted to the scholarship fund.

THOSE PRESENT

Among those present were Mrs. K. B. Spurgin, Mrs. G. Holmes, Mrs. G. Henderson (Vancouver), Mrs. J. S. Woods, Mrs. C. A. Watson, Mrs. A. Horsfield, Mrs. H. Hodson, Mrs. K. C. McCannell, Mrs. C. E. Blaney, Mrs. T. Rison (Port Angeles), Mrs. M. McLeod (Vancouver).

Misses Jane Kirkland, G. Bayley, Diana Darling, Helen Cornwall, Joan Shiels, Miriam Norton, Constance Fraser, Givrie Mercer, Dorothy Ruth and Gretchen Mellicke (Vancouver), Audrey Thompson (Vancouver).

WOMEN'S CANADIAN CLUB MEET FRIDAY

Str. Ernest MacMillan, principal of Toronto Conservatory of Music, will address the Women's Canadian Club next Friday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock at the Empress Hotel. He will speak on "Canada and the Parting of the Ways in Music." Mrs. T. H. Johns, will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Pierre Timp, and Miss Gwen Harper, pianiste, will contribute solos. Mrs. Johns and Miss Harper are graduates of Toronto Conservatory.

BELL RINGERS AT A.Y.P.A. CONCERT

In the absence of both the president and the vice-president, Ralph Freethy took the chair at the last meeting of the Cathedral A.Y.P.A. During the evening the members proceeded to the chapel of the cathedral, where Rev. T. R. Lancaster conducted the A.Y.P.A. initiation service, and three new members were admitted to the branch. Following the ceremony refreshments were served in the Memorial Hall.

Owing to an inadvertent change in the programme, the next meeting of the branch will be the nomination of officers for the coming year. A first class programme has been arranged for the concert which the A.Y.P.A. will hold on Saturday evening, May 9. A special feature of the concert will be a number by the Christ Church Cathedral Bell Ringers—a group of handbell ringers who have been preparing for change ringing on the actual peal which is now on its way from England, and shortly to be installed in the cathedral.

Gorgeous

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

© 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

"I certainly do," he assured her. "And doing a swell job of it. As a matter of fact, you're a knock-out in that outfit. Best-looking model in the room. Oh, yes, you are. Absolutely a knock-out!"

Toby didn't wait to hear any more. She hurried toward the door. Fortunately the girl who was waiting there was Harriet, who made no comment, though her arched brows indicated that she had witnessed the brief scene.

Back in the dressing-room, Toby stole a glance at herself in the mirror. There was a color in her cheeks that had not been there before. Her eyes were brighter, too. But it had been a shock—seeing Tim Jamieson when she had been so sure that she never would see him again. It really was queer, the way they kept running into each other—ways that nobody could possibly have planned. Maybe he was right about it; maybe it was Fate. It almost seemed to be.

A girl Harriet had introduced as Janet came over to where Toby sat and said, "How do you suppose this thing should go? It's more than I can figure out."

Janet was wearing a lemon-colored chiffon gown, with an intricate looped scarf that didn't look quite as it should be. Toby made a suggestion, but it didn't seem to help. They tried several other ways until Miss Landers' assistant showed them how the scarf was supposed to be worn.

Janet picked up a lemon-colored card-waist hat, then tilted it on her head and disappeared through the door as Carol Marsh came flouncing in.

Carol was in white flannel, with a touch of flame at the throat. There was a coat to the dress and she tossed it aside carelessly, so that the maid who was waiting for it had to stoop to pick it up.

"Betty!" Carol exclaimed. "Who do you think I just saw?"

"How about it, Betty?" Betty Turnbull answered. "Betty Turnbull before a mirror, intent on placing a hair ornament in her blond curls. 'Who was it?'"

"Tim Jamieson—of all people! Can you imagine Tim at a style show? I was never more surprised in my life! But I suppose somebody told him I was modeling here this afternoon and that's why he came. He follows me everywhere; honestly, it's almost a nuisance—but, of course, I'm crazy about him."

"Who wouldn't be?" Betty had the ornament in place now and turned. "He's got everything, hasn't he? Looks, family, money—what more could a girl want? If there were more Tim Jamiesons in the world I'd be a lot better pleased."

"It was sweet of him to come, wasn't it?" Carol wiped rouge from her lips, preparatory to smoothing on a fresh supply. "You know what I think I'll do? I'm going to tell Tim he can take us to the Seville Club tonight. They say there are some divine new dancers there. I was supposed to go somewhere with Tom Prescott—he's been calling and asking and I finally promised him a date—but I'll get out of it somehow."

"Oh, do, Carol! I'll call Wally—or, no, I don't believe I will. We might run into someone else."

They went on making plans for the evening. Toby could hear their voices clearly, but she was not listening.

She had money and family position, just as he did. She'd never worked at bargain counters or fought her way through rush-hour crowds. She'd never hunted, day after day, for a job that would pay enough to keep her alive. "One of the Park Avenue darlings," Harriet had called Carol. That was what she was—whether she lived on Park Avenue or not. One of the Park Avenue darlings.

The maid was slipping a dress over Carol Marsh's head. One of the fastenings caught in a bit of fragile lace and Carol spoke sharply. "Clumsy creature!" she said. "Can't you watch what you're doing?"

Well, if that was the sort of girl Tim Jamieson was crazy about, all right. That was fine with Toby. That was wonderful. "I never want to see him again," she told herself. "Never. And this time I mean it!"

Suddenly Toby realized that she had been wasting time. She'd have to hurry; she was supposed to go on in a few minutes. The models had been warned that if one of them were late she'd throw the entire show off schedule.

Toby took down the yachting suit everyone had exclaimed about, and she got into it. The suit had white trousers and a blue coat like a ship's officer's. To top it, there was a frivolous version of a sailor's cap, to be worn at an audacious angle.

Toby stood before the full-length mirror, trying the cap. Yes, it was better tilted to the right. It was quite becoming. She stepped back, studying the effect. The yachting suit looked well on her, too. Miss Landers had said at once that Toby was to wear it. So few girls could wear trousers; Toby was one of the few.

A voice at her elbow cut in. "Of course we all know you're beautiful, but would you mind giving someone else a chance to use that mirror?"

It was Carol Marsh. Toby moved away, not trusting herself to speak. If Harriet Holm had said the same words they would have been a joke. But Carol was not joking. There was cool insolence in the tilt of Carol Marsh's head, the steady, unsmiling dark eyes.

Toby crossed to a window, turning her back on the room. The usual afternoon traffic was in progress in the street below, but Toby saw none of it. Tears that she refused to shed blinded her. Piercing she winked them back.

She would not give way. She would not! Nobody was going to know that anything Carol Marsh could say would hurt Toby Ryan. Who was Carol Marsh, anyhow? Why did she think she was so much better than everybody else?

A tear drop slid down Toby's cheek. She wiped it away hastily. In a few minutes she'd have to go back into that ballroom and parade like a peacock among the tables of women drinking tea.

Violently Toby wished she had not come to the fashion show, wished she'd never heard of it. But that was a silly wish. Why not be frank with herself? It wasn't the fashion show that had gone wrong. It was because she'd found out that a man she—well, she was interested in—wasn't all she'd thought him.

The maid who, a few minutes before, had been helping Carol Marsh to dress approached Toby. "Miss Ryan?" she said.

The maid came nearer and her voice lowered. "A gentleman asked me to give you this." Discreetly, she handed Toby a folded slip of paper.

"But—I?" Toby began, and then suddenly stopped. She took the slip of paper and moved to the rack of clothes a few steps away. The rack served as a screen, affording privacy. Toby unfolded the note and read:

Dear Miss Ryan—Meeting you so unexpectedly has made me believe this is my lucky day. Won't you prove it by having dinner with me? I've asked you twice before, you know. Please let the third time be the charm.

I haven't nerve enough to stay around through the entire fashion show even to see you model, but I'll be waiting at 5.30.

TIM JAMIESON.

Toby turned. At the end of the room Carol Marsh was inspecting herself in the mirror. Intent on her reflection, Carol was the embodiment of aloofness and self-confidence.

So Carol Marsh thought she was going to the Seville Club with Tim Jamieson that evening, did she? Hastily, Toby made up her mind. She crossed to where the maid was smoothing out discarded garments.

"Do you think you could find Mr. Jamieson—the young man who gave you the message?" "I think I could," the maid smiled. "He said he'd be waiting for an answer."

Toby moved nearer. "Tell him," she said, "that Miss Ryan will be ready at 5.30."

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Much foolish advice is circulated on the value of massage during the expectant period. It is contended that massage will prevent scarring and will preserve the figure. But massage is unnecessary, and should never be used except by advice of a doctor and under his immediate direction.

If, for any reason, a woman is compelled to remain in bed for several weeks, she may require light exercise in the form of passive motion. This means merely that her legs and arms will be moved for her by an attendant.

But even passive motion under such circumstances must be prescribed by the doctor.

The prospective mother must learn to rest frequently. If she has not been taking a nap in the afternoon, she should develop the habit at this time, lying down for a half hour if circumstances permit.

Even if she is not able to sleep, reclining position rests the heart and relaxes the system generally. If possible, she may remove her usual clothing and take her nap in bed.

Another pernicious notion is the idea that bathing during this time may be harmful. Cleanliness at all times is necessary for the health of the human body. This does not mean excessive bathing.

The skin should be kept clean because it is more active during this period than normally. The body is called on for increased elimination and excretion of waste substances, and the skin is one of the important organs of the body involved in removal of such waste.

There are many kinds of baths, including the shower, sponge or tub varieties, and those given in bed. Very hot baths cause fatigue. The best temperature of water under these circumstances is between 35 and 99 degrees Fahrenheit.

Even those who are accustomed to a cold plunge every morning will find it best to increase the temperature of the bath during the expectant period. Certainly a warm bath daily is a requirement for the expectant mother.

If the mother-to-be finds it difficult to sleep, she may take the warm bath at night, because it is relaxing and promotes sleep. If the warm bath is taken in the morning, at least an hour should elapse before the woman goes outdoors, so that her body may become accustomed to the change in temperature.

Tub baths should be avoided and the sponge or shower bath substituted during the last months. This helps the prospective mother avoid infection.

Extraordinary types of baths, such as cold showers, ocean baths, and particularly Turkish and Russian sweat baths, should not be taken except under the advice of a doctor, because they are exhausting.

CEREMONY AT NEW CHURCH

Bishop MacDonald and Chaplains at Lake Hill Services

Yesterday afternoon the ceremony of blessing the new Church of the Sacred Heart in Lake Hill District, Palmer Road, off Quadra Street, was impressively carried out by Rt. Rev. Bishop John Hugh MacDonald, with assisting chaplains Rev. Father Gaudette and Rev. Father Guerke, as deacon and sub-deacon respectively.

The bishop was also attended by Rev. Father Lemens and Rev. Father Osborne.

At 2 o'clock a large concourse of people gathered outside the church to await the coming of the bishop. Mother Provincial of St. Ann's, Sister Superior of St. Joseph's Hospital, and representatives of the nursing and teaching staffs of the Order of St. Ann, were present, as well as delegates from all the Catholic organizations in each parish.

St. Ann's Choir of Sisters and some of the pupils sang during the ceremonies.

The bishop vested in cope and mitre, and carrying the crozier, symbol of his office, prayed before the open door of the new church, and after, intoning the Asperges, and while the Miserere was being sung by the choir, sprinkling it with holy water. He then entered the church followed by the clergy, the Sisters of St. Ann, and the people, and before the altar the Litany of the Saints was sung. Psalms cxix, cxix and cxix were recited and the bishop and his attendants encircled the church on the inside, sprinkling it with holy water.

The bishop addressed the large audience which filled the little church to capacity. He congratulated the people upon the very successful completion of their ideal, which has secured for the Catholic community at Lake Hill their own proper place of worship. The bishop thanked all who had been so indefatigable in the raising of funds to provide the materials for so laudable an undertaking, more especially he signalled out Patrick Mahoney, contractor, to whose excellent workmanship and generous services this church owes its existence. The floral decorations of the altar were very effective, the flowers being donated and arranged by Mrs. and Miss Webb and Mrs. Fitzgerald. In the Community Hall of Lake Hill, also, charmingly decorated, a reception was held under the general convenship of Mrs. John J. Burns, assisted by a committee of all the ladies of the new parish: Mrs. de Blaquiere and Mrs. Fitzgerald received donations from friends during the afternoon. Afternoon tea was then served. Convening the tables were Mrs. Cockerill and Mrs. Heather. Presiding at the centre table and pouring tea and coffee were Mrs. F. J. Sehl, Mrs. A. McDermott, Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. W. McManus, Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. James Adam

Mrs. Edward McQuade Jr. Assisting at the bishop's table were Mrs. P. J. Harris, Mrs. M. Egan and Miss E. Scanlan. Convening the refreshments was Mrs. P. J. Hourigan, with Mrs. Tharratt, Mrs. P. Kyle, Mrs. O'Connell, Mrs. Webb, Mrs. Waites, Mrs. M. E. O'Neill, Miss Mary Walsh, P. Walsh, Desmond and Jack Hourigan assisting. Those serving tea and coffee were the Misses Winifred Webb, E. Webb, Mary Waite, Sheila O'Connell, Ellen O'Connell and Betty Kyle, all of Lake Hill, and the Misses Kay Morry, Mary Morry, Nora O'Connell, Agnes Bantley, Bernadette Colbert and Mona Keipin, all of Victoria.

It was announced by Father Albury that mass will be celebrated in the new church on Tuesday and on Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. Also on Sunday next at 9:30 o'clock high mass will be sung for the benefactors of the church.

MAN KILLED BY ELECTRIC CAR

Canadian Press
New Westminster, May 4.—John Lewis Smith, forty-four years old, of New Westminster, was killed Saturday night when struck by a British Columbia Electric Railway Interurban on the Fraser Mills line.

Smith was walking home with his wife, and sat on the street car tracks to rest, but was unable to move before the interurban hit him. He was brought to the hospital, but was dead on arrival.

He is survived by the widow. An inquest was called for this afternoon.

Now we Begin to Live

"YES, WE HAVE STARTED TO LIVE"

"... after running our Austin for three months and making a comparison of cost for operation against our old car ... we find we will be able to take a trip up-island this summer holiday ... and stop at the best hotels and auto camps. Our saving in gas and oil will take care of the extra expense for hotel accommodation.

"... that is not the whole story, either. We took our neighbors with us last Sunday, and they, too, were surprised at the comfort of riding in an Austin. We had our sunshine top wide open and they did enjoy all the good fresh air ... also the pleasure of looking about at the gorgeous scenery without draft discomfort ... And the smoothness of riding performance on the hills gave them as much comfort as did our big car.

"... for the average family we have no hesitation in recommending the Austin car. When transportation costs are out as much as ours are ... they, too, will feel they are ... starting to live."

MACMILLAN TO ARRIVE FRIDAY
Principal of Toronto Conservatory of Music Sees Music Growth

Sir Ernest Macmillan, principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, who is making an extended tour of Western Canada, is expected to arrive in Victoria next Friday to spend the day.

He is scheduled to address a Canadian Club luncheon at noon on Friday at the Empress Hotel, the Women's Canadian Club at 3:45 o'clock, and the same evening will attend a dinner and reception being arranged by local musical organizations.

During his tour Sir Ernest is visiting Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton and Saskatoon to meet music teachers and discuss with them questions of teaching, examination work, and the new syllabus of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. In each city he plans to address Canadian Clubs and other organizations on music and its relation to Canadian life.

He will be honored with the degree of Doctor of Laws at a special convocation of the University of British Columbia in Vancouver on Wednesday.

WESTERN INTEREST
On leaving Toronto for the west last Saturday, Sir Ernest said: "The growth of interest in music has nowhere been more marked in recent years than in the western provinces, and I have been greatly impressed by the keenness of those engaged in musical activity and by their eagerness to extend their knowledge and capacities in every direction."

The enlightened attitude of educational authorities in the west toward music was also a matter of extreme gratification, he said, with the consequence that music in the west was coming into its own as one of the great humanities.

"Naturally economic conditions in recent years have reduced the number of those who could afford to pay for musical tuition," Sir Ernest continued, "but the increasing number of inquiries from westerners about courses of study and examination requirements of the Toronto Conservatory of Music shows that we are well past the low point, and strongly indicates the revival of keen interest in all branches of music."

His divorced husband, serving a King County jail sentence for drunkenness, was released by Judge William R. Bell as an act of clemency. Whereabouts of Mrs. Clemons' estranged husband were not known. Firemen said they believed the blaze started from a cigarette, perhaps dropped by Mrs. Clemons as she dozed on a downstairsavenport.

FARMER'S DEATH IS INVESTIGATED
Canadian Press
Ituna, Sask., May 4.—Mysterious circumstances surrounding the shooting of Nick Danesawich, thirty-five-year-old farmer of the Hubbard district, were being closely scrutinized today by Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Danesawich was found dead in his bed early yesterday morning. His wife told police she was awakened by the sound of a shot and after lighting a lamp she found her husband lying beside her, a bullet in his head. Mrs. Danesawich stated that when she went to bed last Saturday night her husband was not in the house and she did not hear him come home. It was about 4 o'clock, she said, when she heard the shot. A rifle was lying on the floor beside the bed.

Coroner J. T. McCullough empaneled a jury and opened the inquest, which after usual formalities was adjourned till May 15.

Ironing Out New Tax Problems

Government Inspectors to Visit All Parts of Alberta and Explain Working of 2 Per Cent Sales Levy

Canadian Press
Edmonton, May 4.—E. M. Gundersen, acting superintendent in charge of collection of Alberta's new 2 per cent sales tax, said today that "half a dozen" new inspectors would be sent out during the next few days to check up on enforcement of the act "and to make sure the regulations are understood in all parts of the province."

Provincial Treasurer Charles Cockcroft added he planned to spike any plans by merchants to absorb the tax.

Calgary, May 4.—Defence of Alberta's 2 per cent sales tax, by which the Social Credit Government hopes to obtain $2,000,000 annually, was made here yesterday by Hon. E. C. Manning, Provincial Secretary, speaking at the Prophetic Bible Institute.

"If certain newspapers explained the tax instead of helping create confusion, a much greater service would be rendered to the public at this time by assisting to make the necessary adjustment to this tax," he said.

"If the tax is an impracticable as the press makes out, how is it that similar taxes are being collected in California and Washington?" he added. "The majority of absolute necessities are exempt entirely."

AS MATTER OF COURSE
Mr. Manning, who returned to Calgary Saturday with his bride after a three-week honeymoon at the Pacific Coast, referred to the state of California, where a 2 per cent tax is levied, and he said, it included meals.

"The taxes are collected despite the fact that California has three times as many people as Alberta," he said. "The people there have taken it as a matter of course."

Telling of his Pacific Coast journey, the Provincial Secretary told of the erroneous impression which he said had been created by incorrect newspaper reports saying "Social Credit had fallen through."

"It is the ultimate end of our Social Credit plan to pay all bona-fide citizens of Alberta enough for food, clothing and shelter," Mr. Manning said he told a reported in Seattle, who had heard Social Credit had failed in Alberta.

DUNCAN
Mrs. G. deLabilliere, who will leave Duncan this week to reside in England, has been the guest of honor at several delightful functions during the last week or two. Bridge parties were given by Mrs. Carberry, Mrs. F. H. Price, Mrs. E. R. Garrard, and others, and a tea and bridge at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. H. N. Watson, Trunk Road, on Friday afternoon arranged by Mrs. F. R. Gooding and Mrs. H. N. Watson. A handsome "fitted" traveling bag was presented to Mrs. deLabilliere, as a parting gift from her many friends, with all names inscribed on a decorated scroll, the work of Mrs. A. C. Johnston.

J. W. Rose Victim of Crash With Auto Near Abbotsford; Driver Injured
Abbotsford, B.C., May 4.—John W. Rose of Bradner, B.C., was killed, and J. Holmes of Vancouver seriously injured when the motorcycle on which they were riding sideswiped an auto traveling in the opposite direction on the highway between Chilliwack and Abbotsford, Saturday evening.

J. D. Reid, alleged driver of the car, and three other occupants were not injured. Reid was charged with manslaughter, and bail was set at $5,000.

The two men on the motorcycle were brought to the hospital at Abbotsford, where Rose died yesterday morning.

Rose, who had suffered a badly mangled left leg, two fractures of the left arm, scalp wounds and internal injuries, died yesterday morning.

Holmes' left leg was torn off below the knee.

Rose was a bachelor sixty-four years old, and had lived in a small shack in Bradner for a number of years. He was employed in a lumber camp on Vancouver Island, and was home for a short holiday. Nothing is known of his relatives.

World Baseball Champions Blanked 6 to 0; Joe DiMaggio in Fine Debut

GIANTS BACK IN WINNING STRIDE

By ANDY CLARKE

The baseball world knows today that Joe Dimaggio of the New York Yankees, the most publicized rookie of the season; is a baseball player of the first water.

The black-haired, quiet lad who came up from the Pacific Coast heralded as the find of a decade, has been accepted into baseball's upper crust after a debut that was as impressive as his lavish advance notices.

The Yankees sent him to the post yesterday in the game against the St. Louis Browns after a burned foot had delayed his appearance three weeks. He came breezing in with the acclaim of New York fandom after leading out a triple and two singles.

The Yankees collected seventeen hits as they downed the Browns 14 to 5 but the fans overlooked the performances of Lou Gehrig and Ben Chapman, each of whom punched out four batters. They were watching the kid from the coast.

The Yankees, however, have little on the Boston Red Sox moguls who saw Wes Ferrell pitch two-hit ball to shut out the Detroit Tigers 6 to 0. The Sox won five out of six games in the week ending yesterday.

Frankie Frisch, the former "Fordham flash" who says he is feeling the force of the years, paced his St. Louis Cardinals to a 6 to 2 victory over the Boston Bees. It was the sixth straight victory for the gashouse gang. Frisch had a perfect day at bat, getting two singles and a double. The New York Giants busted into the win column again by beating the Cincinnati Reds 7 to 5 in an eleven-inning struggle which saw the score tied three times. General Manager S. MacPhail of the Reds, suspended Paul Derringer, the team's leading pitcher, for failing to slide home in the fifth after doubling and going to third on Kiki Cuyler's single.

Van Lingle Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers was the victim of an eighth inning assault in which the Pittsburgh Pirates got four hits and as many runs to defeat the Flatbushers 6 to 5.

HALT WIN STREAK

The Cleveland Indians halted Washington's four-game win streak by blanking the Senators 3 to 0 in a game that was terminated after the fifth inning by rain. Buck Newson was charged with his second defeat of the year.

The Chicago White Sox, going into the ninth inning on the short end of a 4 to 3 score, turned on an attack climaxed by Zeke Bonura's homer that netted five runs and an 8 to 4 victory.

performance. Art Chapman fouled Julius Goldman and the latter connected with both shots.

Ed Dawson was called for blocking Peden. Windsor asked time out with ten minutes to play and the score at 25 to 17. Andrews came back in and Mottishaw went to the bench. Martin went in for Goldsmith. Peden made his single when play resumed.

Stewart fouled Peden, who muffed it. Dominos were losing out time and again on poor marksmanship. Jimmy Stewart took a long pass from Meretsky, eluded a guard and dribbled in close to score. Martin counted a single after Ed Dawson fouled him.

Chuck Chapman blocked Meretsky, who made it good. Meretsky intercepted a pass in his own territory and dribbled three-quarters of the length of the floor at high speed for a "dog."

Art Chapman retaliated a moment later. Then Jimmy Stewart got a pass from Meretsky to score and was followed in twenty seconds by Wiseman, who dribbled in and made a jumping shot. With five minutes to go the score was 34 to 21 for Ford.

A foul was called on Jimmy Stewart when Dominos asked for time out. Play resumed and Peden missed.

Martin followed up his long shot and connected. Pendlebury went in for Ed Dawson in the Windsor line-up. Pendlebury passed to Wiseman under the basket and the score was 36 to 23 for the home team.

With less than one minute to play Wiseman charged in under the basket and took a fast pass from Goldman to score. A few seconds later Wiseman raced in and connected with a "dog." That was the last score of the game.

Hill's Corner Soccer Champs

Defeat Wimpy's Capitals 2 to 1 to Win Juvenile Football Championship

Hill's Corner soccer eleven were today Royal Juvenile Athletic Association Football League champions. Playing Saturday morning, the new champs defeated Wimpy's Capitals, 2 to 1, at the Athletic Park. In a sudden death tie for league honor, and possession of the Colinet Cup.

With the score deadlocked 1 to 1, "Red" Miles pushed across the winning marker late in the final session. The match was keenly fought the entire ninety minutes of play. The ability of the two goalies, R. Moss for Hill's and J. Drummond for Capitals, stopped the clubs from capitalizing on their scoring attempts.

The teams fought through a scoreless first half. Soon after the resumption, however, George Barnes, Capitals inside right, headed in Moss's attempted clearance for the opening marker. Bert Politano, husky player for Hill's Corner got the equalizer following a rally on the part of his team-mates.

The Capitals kept Moss busy in his goalmouth for about five minutes. Hill's Corner took advantage of their chance late in the half and "Red" Miles rolled in the goal that signified victory for them.

Edgar, Border refereed.

The teams follow:

Hill's Corner—R. Moss, A. Blake, J. Joyce, P. Darling, V. Dale, R. Balph, L. Meyers, A. Politano, R. McDonald, F. Westgate, G. Duncan, H. Frost and T. Smith.

Wimpy's Capitals—J. Drummond, H. Brown, W. Stewart, C. Holt, R. Williams, I. Carney, E. Sage, J. Munroe, G. Barnes, R. Cosler, R. Wilson and B. Berry.

C. E. SLINGSBY CLUB CHAMP

Defeats Dr. E. L. McNiven 2 and 1 For Uplands B Class Honors

C. E. E. Slingsby won the B class championship at the Uplands Golf Club yesterday when he defeated Dr. E. L. McNiven 2 and 1.

The winner led all the way, being 3 up at the fifth. He lost the sixth and eighth to be 1 up at the turn. Dr. McNiven laid himself a styrmie at the eleventh and went 2 down, which became 3 down at the twelfth. The thirteenth was halved when the loser missed a foot-putt for the hole. This proved the settling point, the fourteenth and fifteenth being halved to leave Slingsby dormie three. Dr. McNiven sank a twelve-foot putt at the sixteenth to stay in the game, but could do no better than halve the seventeenth to end the match.

The prizes in this competition and the Fessey Cup will be presented to the winners when the awards of the club championship are made.

Victoria Crew Loses By Length and a Half to Washington Oarsmen

Seattle, May 4.—The undefeated rowing fleet of the University of Washington scored four more triumphs Saturday, when its lightweight and freshman sweepers defeated eight-oared boats of Oregon States College and the Victoria Rowing Club.

In the feature race of the regatta, the Washington 150-pounders conquered the Victoria seniors by one and one-half lengths over the mile and a half course in the Lake Washington Canal. Washington's time was 8:01, and Victoria's time 8:07.

The Washington second freshman boat defeated the Oregon State Varsity by nine lengths in eight minutes flat. The Beavers were clocked in 8:35.

Oregon State's 150-pounders lost to the Husky second lightweight oarsmen by three lengths, with the Victoria juniors trailing seven lengths behind. Washington's time was 8:49, O.S.C. 8:59 and the Canadian 9:26.

In the preliminary event the third Washington freshman eight was first in 8:15, the Husky "pickle" boat, second in 8:36 and the Oregon State frosh third in 8:57.

down the back stretch. He claimed his mount was bumped at the start and points to the chart, which shows Bold Venture breaking next to last in the field of fourteen, to substantiate his argument.

Stout, who escaped with a skinned nose, contends Bold Venture bore over on him at the start, throwing Granville off stride. Wayne Wright, seeking his fourth rich stake of the year, had nothing to say for publication after losing with Brerly. He had plenty to say, however, that could not be printed.

Bold Venture and Granville probably will renew their feud in the $25,000 Freshness at Pimlico, May 16, but Brerly will not join the argument until the $50,000 Belmont States at Belmont Park, next month. Brerly was not named for the Freshness.

fumbled the hot one and it rolled into the net.

For the rest of the half, Esquimalt could not keep the pressing Sanich squad away from their end of the field, although they did manage to stop them from capitalizing when he lost his title to Barney Ross, the same man who took the lightweight crown from Canzoneri only to see him win it back again after his conqueror moved into a heavier division, but he hasn't let himself get soft. Jimmy has been working out regularly and keeping in condition during his absence from the ring.

Meanwhile Canzoneri, who has kept working steadily at his trade ever since he took up the boxing business a dozen years ago, hasn't allowed himself to become ring rusty. He's had a fight every month or two to keep his eye sharp and his timing accurate.

It's on that basis that many of the fight faithful have chosen to make Canzoneri a slight favorite.

A public meeting will be held in Marigold Hall at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. N. W. Whittaker, M.P.P., will speak on "Legislation During the Recent Session."

Resignation of Frank A. Hewer of Roberts Creek as a stipendiary magistrate for the county of Vancouver has been accepted by the provincial government.

The Model School, Richmond Road, will hold an open house on Wednesday from 1 to 4 o'clock. Parents of pupils and former students are invited to attend.

Prince Rupert's annual tax rate by-law, which fixes a levy of fifty mills, has been approved by the provincial government. The levy includes twenty-two mills for general purposes, twelve mills for schools and sixteen mills for debt.

A quantity of liquor and a slot machine were seized by Sanich police in a raid on the home of W. D. Smith, Feltham Road, early this morning, according to a police report. The raid was conducted by Chief Rankin, with Sergeant Cummings and Constables Bull and Wood.

The provincial government has appointed the following as special police constables without salary: H. A. Patterson and G. H. Arnott, employees of the B.C. Coast Vegetable Marketing Board; and Game Wardens B. Cash of Victoria, W. H. McLean of Greenwood and H. V. Morgan of Revelstoke. L. E. Requa of Butedale has been named a special constable.

The Victoria Choral Union will hold its annual meeting in the Memorial Hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Members are invited to take friends interested in the union's work. Reports of the year's activities, which included "The Messiah" at Christmas and Brahms's Requiem at Easter will be given and officers will be elected. Herbert Kent, president, will preside.

Dr. William Newton, pathologist in charge at the Experimental Station, Saanich, will be the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Horticultural Society at the City Hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the first visit of the speaker since his return from England, and he will speak to the society on "The Training of the English Gardener."

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Neal of Elk Lake were injured Tuesday morning when their car skidded and went into a mudbank at the corner of North Quadra Street and Reynolds Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Porter, also of Elk Lake, with their daughter, Mrs. A. O. Hood, happened to be driving at the time, and had the injured couple removed to their car, and rushed to the Jubilee Hospital. Mr. Neal's car was considerably damaged.

Two applicants from Scandinavia were before Judge Lamont here today for naturalization as Canadians. Eleanor Nilsson, Oak Bay housekeeper, born in Sweden, was sponsored for citizenship by Ernest Schaper and Lilian Molyneux, who both testified as to her qualifications. Norman Nelson, brigadier of the Canadian National Railways, was born in Norway. Oliver B. Ormond and Clifford Logan took the stand and testified he was worthy of becoming a Canadian. Judge Lamont received both applications and sent his recommendations on to the Secretary of State at Ottawa for final action.

ASK SPECIAL CITY GRANTS

Ald. Hunter Drafts Resolutions Seeking Provincial and Federal Aid

Two parallel motions were framed today by Alderman J. D. Hunter for presentation at this afternoon's City Council meeting asking both provincial and federal governments to assist Victoria through the medium of special grants. Among other things such grants would help to compensate the city for revenue lost through tax exempt property owned by the two governments.

The two resolutions, similar in virtually all preambles except figures showing tax exemption in regard to provincial and federal authorities, gave prominence to the fact Ottawa received such special consideration.

Alderman Hunter believed Victoria, as the capital of British Columbia and a leading tourist centre, should be accorded similar treatment.

His resolution seeking provincial government aid, follows:

"Be it resolved, that the City Council respectfully request that the provincial authorities give early and favorable consideration to the provision of a similar type of grant for the city of Victoria as the capital of the province of British Columbia."

"And that a copy of this resolution be sent to Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Prime Minister of British Columbia, Hon. G. M. Weir, provincial secretary; Hon. J. H. Hart, minister of finance; Hon. A. W. Gray, minister of municipal affairs; and Hon. F. M. MacPherson, minister of public works."

FEDERAL REQUEST

The similar resolution seeking federal assistance noted the Dominion Government had in Victoria properties of the assessed value for land of $577,960 and for improvements of $5,136,000 which were exempt from taxation.

If the properties were privately owned and taxed accordingly on a forty-one mill rate, they would yield $148,994 for the entire amount or $22,731 if the Ogden Point docks were included.

The resolution concludes: "Be it resolved that the City Council respectfully request that the Dominion authorities give early and favorable consideration to the provision of a similar type of grant for the city of Victoria as the capital of British Columbia."

"And that a copy of this resolution be sent to Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada; Hon. P. J. A. Cassidy, minister of public works; Hon. Charles A. Dunning, minister of finance; Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce; and Hon. Fernand Rinfret, secretary of state."

RALPH ROGERS OUT ON BAIL

Vancouver Sports Enthusiast Released on Posting of $20,000 Security

Ralph C. Rogers was released from the city jail today on $20,000 bail, posted in one security by George W. Morgan, Vancouver business man.

Rogers left headquarters at 11:30 o'clock this morning, leaving behind a quantity of fruit and chocolate which had been given him, "for the boys."

Application for his liberty was made before Magistrate Jay in City Police Court this morning by W. E. Williams, K.C., who appeared for Rogers, who came over with Mr. Morgan.

Several local acquaintances visited Rogers after the week-end.

Rogers is listed to appear next Friday morning on a charge of stealing over $60,000 in bonds from his wealthy aunt, Mrs. Leah Rogers, widow of the late C. W. Rogers, Victoria chocolate manufacturer.

Efforts are being continued, it was understood, to have the charge withdrawn, the aunt having reconciled with her nephew during an interview at police headquarters.

PIONEER WOMAN DIED SUNDAY

Mrs. Emma Thomas, a pioneer resident of Victoria, passed away yesterday at the Aged Women's Home, aged eighty-six years.

The late Mrs. Thomas was born in London, England, and came to Victoria fifty-five years ago, residing here ever since. She was a member of the Daughters of England for a number of years until her increasing age precluded her active participation.

Mrs. Thomas is survived by three sons, William Slater, Texas Island; Jack and Noel Thomas of Victoria; two daughters, Mrs. W. Wilkinson and Mrs. W. L. Kelly, both in Vancouver.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday afternoon, in the Sands Mortuary Chapel, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Canon F. A. Chadwick will officiate. The remains will be laid to rest in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Complaint of false reports on the condition of the island highway is expressed by P. C. Lang of Courtenay, in a letter to the Victoria Automobile Club. The letter stressed that last year the Comox district suffered considerable loss of tourist business due to incorrect reports regarding the state of the roads north of Victoria.

"This year we are doing all in our power to co-operate with island points as we have done in the past," he said. In Victoria we are spending a considerable amount of money advertising the Comox district."

Obituary

THOMAS HOCKIN

The remains of Thomas Hockin of 421 Vancouver Street, who passed away Saturday at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, were forwarded this afternoon by Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel to Medicine Hat for interment. The late Mr. Hockin was born in Devonshire, England, forty-four years ago and was for many years baggage-master at Medicine Hat before coming to Victoria two years ago. He is survived by his widow, one son, George, and one daughter, Grace.

CHIEF DAVID

The remains of Chief David Joseph Latess, centenarian chief of the Songhees Indians, who died on Saturday at his home on the West Saanich reserve, were removed this afternoon to the family residence. On Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Rev. Father William Lemmens will celebrate Mass in the Assumption Church; West Saanich Road, and the remains will be laid to rest in West Saanich Catholic Cemetery.

ALEXANDER BARBER JOHNSTONE

On Saturday afternoon at the Royal Jubilee Hospital the death occurred of Alexander Barber Johnstone, aged sixty-two years, of 338 Ker Avenue, Saanich. Mr. Johnstone was born in Scotland and had been a resident of this city for the last fifty years. He is survived by his widow and six daughters, Mrs. C. Hardy, Mrs. W. Hitchen, Mrs. R. Elves, Misses Connie, Mavis and Esther Johnstone, and three grandchildren, all of this city; also three sons, John, Bert and James, of this city, and John, of Seattle. The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at McCall Bros' Funeral Home at 2 o'clock. Rev. Daniel Walker will conduct the service, after which interment will be made in Colwood Burial Park.

WILLIAM JOHNSON

Attended by a large number of sorrowing friends, the funeral of the late William Johnson was held Saturday afternoon. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., officiated. A large number of floral offerings surrounded the casket. There was a large representation of members of Columbia Lodge No. 3, I.O.O.F., the Amputations' Club of the Canadian Legion and the Rebekahs in attendance. Active pallbearers were W. Klitt, J. Foubister, J. B. Shaw, H. Ward, G. Campbell and Hugh Nobbs. Honorary bearers were J. D. Veary, F. Sargant, A. Gledhill, E. Tucker, G. Ockwell and J. Dobbin. All members of the Amputations' Club. At the graveside officers of the I.O.O.F. conducted the services. The remains were laid to rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

FANNIE ATKINSON

At the family residence, 152 Lady-smith Street, yesterday, the death occurred of Mrs. Fannie Atkinson, wife of Thos. Atkinson, aged seventy-three years. Mrs. Atkinson was born in Cumberland, England, and came to this city eleven years ago from Wilbert, Sask. She is survived by her husband, at home; one son, John R. in Neilburg, Sask.; one daughter, Mrs. Duncan Baynton, in Vera, Sask.; and three grandchildren; also two brothers and one sister in England and one sister in Vancouver, B.C., U.S.A. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

HERBERT RADFORD

Funeral services for the late Herbert Radford of 1958 Crescent Road, who passed away on Friday, will take place from the Thompson Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. W. G. Wilson, pastor of the First United Church, of which Mr. Radford was a member, will conduct the service. Interment will be in family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Judge Manson Greeted By Bar

Former Attorney-General Makes First Appearance As Supreme Court Justice

Hon. A. M. Manson, former Speaker of the B.C. Legislature and Attorney-General in the Oliver government, was returned to Victoria today as Mr. Justice Manson to take for the first time his seat on the bench of the Supreme Court here.

Frank Higgins, K.C., and H. H. Standley delivered the addresses of welcome on behalf of the bar in Victoria.

Mr. Justice Manson, in replying, spoke for several minutes, taking as his text a letter he had received from a friend in the south, congratulating him on his elevation to the bench, and referring to the high standards of justice here. Hon. Mr. Manson spoke of the determination to live up to such ideals. He said there was often criticism over delay in getting out judgments, but members of the bar did not realize how much time was required to prepare a judgment with care and accuracy in the free time between other trials.

Mr. Justice Manson will preside over the Supreme Court here all this week, and probably all of next week.

A fine of $15 was imposed on Hugh McCulloch when he was convicted in the city police court this morning on a charge of driving to the common danger.

Swimming League To Meet Tonight

The annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Swimming League will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. Election of officers and submission of reports will have interest with plans for the coming season. All interested in swimming locally are invited to attend the meeting.

TRIBUTE TO D.B. PLUNKETT

Prime Minister Speaks of Loss House Has Suffered

Canadian Press
Ottawa, May 4.—Party leaders in the House of Commons joined today in paying tribute to D. B. Plunkett, Conservative member for Victoria, who died over the weekend.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King rose at the opening of the sitting and spoke of the loss the House suffered in Mr. Plunkett's death. He expressed sympathy with the Conservative party, with the city of Victoria and the Plunkett family.

Mr. Plunkett was a man of the highest character and integrity, said Mr. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative Leader, as he thanked the Prime Minister for his words. He had a kindly heart behind a somewhat forbidding exterior and was possessed of great simplicity and directness of speech and action. He was loyal to his city and his party and an industrious worker in an unostentatious way.

Similar sentiments of the Independent groups were expressed by J. B. Woodsworth, C.C.P. Leader.

CONSERVATIVES PAY TRIBUTE

Tribute to the late Mr. Plunkett was paid today by R. A. Wootton, first vice-president of the B.C. Conservative Association. Mr. Wootton said:

"Sincere, honest, steadfast and true, in short, a man. These words properly describe Mr. Plunkett. Party could not ask more than he gave nor could the city which he represented. We feel his loss deeply, and I am proud to pay tribute to him."

COMMITTEE STANDS

Ottawa, May 4 (Canadian Press).—On motion of Defence Minister Mackenzie King the House of Commons committee on radio stood for a brief silent tribute today to Darcy B. Plunkett, Conservative member for Victoria, who died here yesterday. Mr. Plunkett was a member of the committee.

NO MOVE ON MILL RATE

City's Cut-throat Committee Not Prepared to Give Recommendation

The City Council was scheduled to sit on estimates this afternoon with the mill rate still unsettled. A meeting of the special estimates committee this morning, at which it was hoped a suggested rate would be established for the approval of the City Council, failed to bring forth a definite figure.

To keep the mill rate at last year's level and hold the improvement taxation at the same basis as 1935, approximately $315,000 must be found. It was understood the council would work on the rate today and would probably set a figure before it adjourned its afternoon meeting.

Alderman P. R. Brown, speaking for the special estimates committee, said following the morning session, that group would go over with the council as a whole the figures the council had referred back to the committee.

NO GENERAL WAGE BOOST

There would be no general increase in salaries, the alderman said, but certain individuals would be given special consideration.

The "cut-throat" committee did not get a net sum of $2,500 from the annual grant to the Jubilee Hospital after having re-arranged various rates included under that general heading to increase some and reduce others.

The committee, he said, would support the recommendation of the public works executive that a new Elgin street sweeper be bought on a basis of three equal annual payments. It would be more economical to follow that policy, the committee thought. Costs of operating the system of hand sweeping were figured excessive.

SCREEN ART IS DEFENDED

Prof. G. Hughes Says Theatre Must Be Changed to Meet Competition

A warning to those interested in the drama not to take a snobbish, ignorant and unfair attitude towards the screen was given by Professor Glen Hughes, director of the division of drama, University of Washington, at the conclusion of the Pacific Drama Conference at the Empress Hotel on Saturday.

He could not share the opinion held by many that the motion pictures were the enemy of the legitimate stage, said Professor Hughes.

He compared some seventy permanent films which had been presented in one year by a good company with the average run of movies, and found the mediocrity rested largely with the former.

Professor Hughes, however, was not of the opinion that the legitimate stage would entirely disappear. To survive, however, it would have to undergo several changes. Theaters would have to be made smaller to give the same clarity of sound and sight to which the movie-going public had become accustomed. Scenery would have to be reduced to the minimum to lessen the sense of artificiality.

REALISM ON STAGE

Realism could be taken too far, said Miss Jeannette A. Gann of Victoria.

This Is News! A Beautiful MENDELSSOHN APARTMENT GRAND $395

It is months... perhaps years... since a piano of such sterling quality has been available in Victoria at such a reasonable price. This instrument plays and looks like a new piano, and when it was originally purchased it cost very nearly $1,000. It is a bargain opportunity you cannot afford to overlook.

Miss Gann had not found very much of realism in the plays presented in the British Columbia Drama Festival.

The value of drama to adults, not only as a profession but as a means of employing leisure time, was stressed by John Kyle, director of the summer school for teachers in a talk on "Dramatic Work As Related to Adult Education."

The Department of Education, said Mr. Kyle, looked favorably on such work, and was prepared to give its active support where it felt it was justified. Mr. Kyle urged his audience to co-operate with their local school boards in obtaining suitable halls.

Daughters Are Assets Instead of Liabilities

Dorothy Dix

RECENTLY I have been called upon to mingle my tears with those of a father and a mother to whom the stark brought a daughter instead of the son they had ordered. Now, if the girl baby had asked for my sympathy, the floodgates of my compassion would have been opened, for it is tough luck for a human being to be born of the female persuasion in this man's world. But looking at the matter strictly from the parents' point of view, I do not see that they have any cause for grief.

Of course, from time immemorial the birth of a man child has been cause for rejoicing and congratulations to its happy father and mother, but no claim and whoops has greeted the advent of the woman child. The best she has ever got is to be received in a spirit of Christian resignation, with apologies from the mother and forgiveness from the father and tactful condolences from friends and acquaintances.

Various explanations are offered for this attitude toward daughters. It is pointed out that those of high degree, who have titles and riches and estates to leave behind them when they die, desire a son to carry on the family dynasty; that daughters are more of a burden on their parents than sons are because they have to be supported, while a boy can hustle out and take care of himself; that the poor look upon a son as a sort of old-age insurance policy, some one to provide for them when they are no longer able to earn their own bread and butter.

If these reasons were ever valid for preferring sons to daughters, they are no longer so, except in the case of a few hereditary titles. The great majority of parents have nothing to leave their children but their blessings, and this can go equally well to either sex. Nor is there any insuperable bar to a girl inheriting money with which she can even purchase a dithyramb, if there is any money left after she has paid Papa's death dues.

As for the rest, in these days of economic freedom for women, daughters are assets instead of liabilities to their families because they get to work just as early as boys do and generally earn just as big salaries, and they are a far more dependable prop for their parents' latter days than their sons are.

There are exceptions to all rules and there are many devoted sons who offer themselves as a sacrifice on the family altar, but for the most part it is the girls who are the mannygoats. When a boy goes to work he feels that what he earns is his own, and if he pays a little board at home Mother boasts of his generosity and what a help he is. But when the girls go to work Mother takes their pay envelopes from them and does them out a little carfare and lunch money and complains about how selfish they are because they won't help her with the housework after a hard day at the office.

It is the daughters of a family who support the house, buy the furniture and fix things up, and who give Mother and Father better clothes and little comforts. Not the sons. And this alone makes a girl a better investment for her parents than a boy.

Then, when age comes, it is the daughters who take the helpless old people into their homes and cherish and care for them. Ninety-nine men are supporting their wives' parents where one is supporting his own. When the old people's home is broken up there is never any question where Mother and Father are to go to live. It is with Sally or Janey. Not with Bill or Tom.

It is frequently said that one of the reasons that parents desire sons instead of daughters is that they expect to gratify their ambitions in their sons' achievements. They expect their sons to make fortunes, to fill high offices, to write best sellers, to be famous actors and what not. But even here a daughter is a better bet than a son. For every girl has twice the chance to be rich and famous than a boy has.

If she is gifted, she can achieve success herself. There are plenty of women who have made fortunes, who are powerful politicians, who are famous authoresses and painters and cinema stars. If, on the other hand, she has no ability to win out herself, she always has the chance of marrying some one who does.

So, taking all of these facts into consideration, the parents of girl babies should cheer up. They really have the pick of the lot. Perhaps the wise ones know this and that is why we have the inexplicable fact to mull over that while people almost invariably desire boy babies of their own, when they come to adopt a child and have their choice in sexes they generally pick out a girl baby.

Uncle Wiggily's Fire Engine

By HOWARD E. GARIS

When Uncle Wiggily hopped out of his hollow stump bungalow one afternoon to go adventuring, his wife said to him:

"Wiggily, will you be sure to come home before dark?"

"Why?" he asked. "Do you want me to take you and Nurse Jane to the movies again?"

"Oh, I wasn't thinking so much about that," Mrs. Longears said. "It would be lovely of you to take me to the woods adventuring after dark the Bad Chaps might get you."

"It's good of you to be so thoughtful of me, my dear," said the rabbit gentleman. "But don't worry. I shall be back before dark."

Then away he hopped, giving his wife and Nurse Jane Fussy Wiggily a cheerful little twinkle from the tip of his pink nose.

But as Mr. Longears reached the front gate on his way to the woods and an adventure he heard Buster, one of his boy rabbits, calling to him.

"Daddy! Daddy! called Buster. 'Will you please take my fire engine with you?'"

"Your fire engine? What for, Buster?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"My toy fire engine is broken," said Buster. "It doesn't squirt water any more. If you put a toy store will you please take my engine in and have it mended?"

"Yes, Buster, I'll do that," said Uncle Wiggily.

As the little boy rabbit's toy fire engine and Buster hopped on to school for the afternoon session, Uncle Wiggily tried to put the toy fire engine in his pocket, but it was too large - it meant the engine was too large.

"Well, I can carry it in my paw," said Mr. Longears. "It isn't far to the toy store and I can leave the engine there and hop on to look for an adventure. On my way back I'll stop and get Buster's toy."

Buster's toy fire engine was a very good one. It was about as large as two roller skates and it had a real hose on it and it squirted real water when you wound up the spring that made the pump go.

"The pump part of this fire engine is broken," said the Monkey Doodle gentleman who kept the toy store when Uncle Wiggily asked what was the matter. "I can easily fix it and I'll have it all ready for you when you stop back after your adventure."

"Thank you," said Uncle Wiggily politely. "Then away he hopped again and soon he was having a jolly adventure helping a little girl squirrel pull off some sticky briars that had caught on her fur coat."

"Thank you, Uncle Wiggily," chattered the little girl squirrel. "Now my mother won't scold me for getting stickers on my coat!"

Here it is, all ready for you," said the Monkey Doodle. "I'll put some water in the tank and let you see how far the pump squirts it!"

Indeed, Buster's toy fire engine was made better than ever and threw a spray of water a long distance. Now my mother 'I'll leave the water in the tank," said the Monkey Doodle.

"Yes," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "If I am careful it will not spill out and Buster can start playing with his toy as soon as I get home."

Uncle Wiggily had delayed as long, helping the squirrel girl and helping the Monkey Doodle play with the fire engine that before the rabbit could get home, it was quite dark in the woods.

"Oh, my!" murmured Uncle Wiggily as he thought of what his wife had said. "Suppose the Bad Chaps get me!" then, all of a sudden there was a crash of feet and some rough voices shouted:

"Here he is! We've got him now!"

But don't worry. Everything is going to come out all right. And if the famous squatter doesn't win the great battle of milk so it looks like a far of cream, it'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the keyhole.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

TUESDAY, MAY 4, 1936

Adverse planetary aspects dominate today, according to astrology. It is wise to avoid risks of every sort, especially in making investments where the speculative spirit will be strong.

There is a sign read as indicating a tendency for the part of those who wield power to fortify themselves against hostile forces. Dictators will be victims of every sort of fear that will lead them to take many drastic decisions.

Women should be especially careful while this configuration prevails. They may be some conspicuous affairs.

College girls may find themselves forgotten by faithful swains, who will pursue their studies.

This is not a lucky wedding day. The June bride will avoid tempting fate, which throws on this month's marriages.

Labour continues under sinister influences that may be of serious effect before next winter. Strikes may be most unfortunate at this time.

Care of the health is enjoined, for many strange maladies may mark this month. Continence in diet is recommended.

Secret societies of many sorts will now extend their activities. Subversive influences will be brought to bear in churches, colleges and political organizations.

Blister partisan contests will reach a sensational climax in the East. It is foretold. A social politician will lose prestige and meet with serious financial reverses.

Persons whose birthdate is 11 have the augury of a year of changes in which love affairs are conspicuous among the young. Business and financial matters are likely to be unpropitious.

Children born on this day probably will be susceptible to influences stimulating study. Subjects of this sign of Taurus have Venus as their ruling planet.

Karl Marx, German socialist, was born on this day, 1818. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Don Odel Shelton, educator and editor, 1871, and Hubert Gibson Shearin, educator, 1871.

SIDNEY

The annual "Ladies' Night" of the North Saanich Service Club along with the North Saanich branch of the Canadian Legion and the local branch of Canadian Scottish was held last Thursday evening at the Service Club.

Major Garrard, president of the Legion, opened the evening's programme with a few remarks. W. Douglas, on behalf of the Legion, paid a farewell tribute to Rev. T. M. Hughes, while Mr. Garrard planned on Mr. Hughes the gold life membership badge of the Legion.

An entertainment then followed, those performing being: Mrs. Helmsing, xylophone solo, accompanied by Miss Kathleen Lowe, L.R.S.M.; Elgar Quartette, Harold Power, violin solo; Mrs. D. Moore and Miss Josephine Charlebois, vocal solo, and the Deep Cove Kitchen Symphony. D. Lyle led community singing.

Bill Robinson, famous tap-dancer, while in the middle of a dance on a New York stage, killed a rat which ran under his foot.
